

Basques Rally In Attempt to Halt Advancing Insurgent Army

Plans are Outlined for Evacuation of 300,000 Civilians

BILBAO MENACED

Munitions Supplies Saved in Barracks

Fire in Madrid

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier—(AP)—Basque defenders of Bilbao rallied in the Durango sector today in a last-ditch battle to hold back the northern insurgent army. In their capital, emergency measures were mapped to evacuate 300,000 noncombatant men, women and children.

The grim defense forces reorganized their lines less than 16 miles east of Bilbao after an orderly retreat from Durango. Then they launched a fierce counter-offensive. Heavy fighting was reported from the front lines at noon. The Basque and government troops were trying to keep General Emilio Mola's insurgents from marching along the level, paved highway to Bilbao, Spanish "Pittsburgh" which lies on the long Biscayan ledge of the country.

The defense forces captured two flags, one of them Italian, took 17 British prisoners, and brought back three Italian soldiers who deserted to the government lines.

Retreat Elsewhere

Officials admitted, however, that the Basques were in retreat on other fronts where three prongs of the insurgent forces are converging in their march to Bilbao. Officers reported their troops were retreating in complete order, shortening and consolidating their lines.

Juan Antonio Aguirre, president of the Basque autonomous republic, called on "God and history" to witness the truth of his assertions that Guernica, historic cradle of Visayan liberty, was bombed mercilessly Monday by German-made insurgent planes which left "nothing but smoking ruins."

Basques, terror-stricken by the attack in which 800 civilians were said to have died, charged waves of bombing planes first made Guernica uninhabitable by their barages, then an armada of pursuit ships slaughtered women and children who fled to the fields, striding them with machine-gun fire.

Emergency Session

The Basque cabinet met in emergency session at Bilbao to help the city's war-swollen population find refuge from the menace of devastating aerial machine-guns and the dread pressure of approaching armies, but cold water was dashed on their hopes for immediate refugee evacuation by the British fleet.

Speakers at the British foreign office in London said it would be necessary first for the Basques and their insurgent foes to agree on the evacuation of perhaps 100,000 refugees from the besieged Basque capital under the protecting guns of British men of war.

Insurgent armies crushed the straggling defenders of Durango, just 16 short miles to the west, with hand grenades and bayonets.

Strafing, low-flying insurgent pursuit planes ranged steadily west, machine-gunning caravans of fleeing civilians between the two cities. Another insurgent army pressed to the brink of devastated Guernica, northeast of Bilbao, a place once the proud shrine of Basque freedom; now a city of the dead.

Madrid—(AP)—Firemen and soldiers saved valuable munitions supplies from a cavalry barracks fire today under heavy insurgent artillery shelling which pushed the death toll above 300 for the 18 days of successful bombardment.

Firemen from every division within the city were called to combat the flames which destroyed the barracks. Munitions and oil and gasoline supplies were rescued.

A great crowd gathered to watch, despite the scream of enemy shells. Several soldiers barely escaped falling debris as they led fearing, frightened charges to safety.

Police ordered a thorough investigation to determine if the blaze was incendiary. The capital's restored municipal council chairman, Rafael Henche de la Plata, made an inspection.

E. C. Yellowley, district governor of the federal alcohol tax unit in Chicago, was given until May 6 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for alleged tampering with the federal grand jury. An investigator for the unit is facing a similar charge.

31 Face Court After Raid at Stevens Point

District Attorney Announces He Is Preparing Warrants

SHERIFF AT PLANT

Judge Tells Officials to Preserve Order Without Taking Sides

Stevens Point—(AP)—Acting District Attorney Royal Galvin announced today he was drawing up warrants accusing 31 men in connection with the raid on the Lullaby Furniture company's plant and the ejection of 27 non-union employees.

Five will be accused of assault with intent to do great bodily harm while armed with a dangerous weapon and with assault and battery. Galvin said. One will be charged with assault and battery and 25 will be named in a blanket warrant charging unlawful assemblage with intent to incite to riot.

Later, Galvin said he would temporarily withhold issuance of the warrant charging unlawful assemblage. He declined to discuss the reason for withholding it.

The five named on the two counts, the prosecutor said, are Mike Kalinowski, Florian Salikiewicz, Thomas Klish, Clester Kulick and Joe Radonski. Galvin said Emil Zblewski would be charged with assault and battery only because he was not seen with a club or other weapon.

Reads Court Order

Sheriff John F. Kubisiak visited the picket lines of the closed plant and read an order from Circuit Judge Byron B. Park directing him and District Attorney A. J. Aschenbrenner to keep order at the plant, take no sides in the controversy, make all necessary investigations and arrest any violators of the law.

Several men were injured late Tuesday when 150 pickets swarmed into the strikebound furniture plant and forced the non-union employees to quit the premises. Defending themselves, the non-union men swung fists and clubs and turned back the picketing line upon the attackers.

Pickets, enforcing a strike called by an American Federation of Labor Furniture Workers' union, marched around the closed plant last night. A police detail also was on the scene. There was no disorder.

The plant remained closed today. Company officials, who were informed yesterday by the sheriff that protection would be provided if production was resumed despite the strike, said they would not attempt to reopen for several days.

The main issue in the dispute, union spokesmen said, was their demand for a closed shop.

William Gillette, veteran actor, died today of a pulmonary hemorrhage at the Hartford hospital. He came to the hospital from his Hadlyme home several days ago. His physician said a severe cold had undermined his health.

Industrial and Labor Leaders To Meet May 4

Perkins Calls Them to Second Conference on Collective Bargaining

CHRYSLER ACCEPTS

Labor Department Announces Increase in Employment in U. S.

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Perkins invited 26 labor and industrial leaders today to attend a second conference on May 4 on collective bargaining problems under the Wagner act.

Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler corporation, headed the list of industrialists. He was the first auto manufacturer asked to help lay the foundation for stabilized employer-employee relations.

Simultaneously the labor department's federal employment service announced an increase in employment and predicted its next report may show a record low of applications.

First figures for March were so far below February, when the active file contained 6,155,000 names, that a check has been started. The February total was the lowest since May, 1935. The peak, just a year ago, was 9,312,000.

New applications in March totaled 202,305 and placements 250,249. The service explained, however, that other factors such as cancellations would have an important bearing on the final figure, which it said might run as much as 500,000 below February.

Like Earlier Confab

Miss Perkins' May 4 conference will follow the lines of the first one last week, at which she said the 27 participants agreed that collective bargaining pacts were "sacred and binding."

The only business representative on the first group invited to the second meeting is Harper Sibley, retiring president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Among the industrialists invited are Gerard Swope of General Electric Co.; Robert E. Wood of Sears, Roebuck and Co.; R. R. Dupree of Cincinnati, president of the Proctor and Gamble Co.; and L. K. Comstock, president of the Merchants Association of New York.

Samuel Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, were invited to represent John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

A. F. L. Spokesman

Frank Morrissey, secretary-treasurer, and John P. Frey, president of the federal's metal trades department, were chosen from the American Federation of Labor.

Those invited to represent the public and the government include President Robert G. Sprout of the University of California; Chairman J. Warren Madden of the national labor relations board; Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Chairman William Ledersson of the National Labor Relations board; and Chairman of the National Catholic Council of Social Service, and Henry Bruere of New York, president of the Bowers Savings bank.

Budget Bill Passage Is Indicated in Senate as Amendments are Lost

Orders Wausau Concern to Shut Its Doors to Prevent Clash Between Two Unions

Self-Balancing Features Apparently Sure to Win O. K.

HOUSE ACTS SLOWLY

Disposes of 4 Amendments by Noon With 37 More Proposed

Madison—(AP)—The senate made slow progress today in considering Governor LaFollette's $65,000,000 budget bill, disposing of only four amendments in an hour and three-quarters before recessing until afternoon.

In rejecting these amendments from Democratic and Republican sources, however, the senate showed support for the self-balancing principles of the bill. On these roll calls the Progressives never had less than 18 votes, one more than a majority, indicating ultimate passage of the measure without substantial change.

The morning voting left 37 amendments still to be considered, many of them proposing to restore to the specific appropriations (the reductions made by the bill under the flexible features).

Definite appropriations of $16,000,000 based on present estimates of income, form the first part of the measure—making general cuts of 15 per cent in the present appropriations. The other $19,000,000 would be pro-rated if sufficient revenue is raised, with state pensions and school aids getting the first call up to the amount of $7,000,000.

Chief Dispute

The principal fight of the morning came on an amendment by Senator Kenneth White (R), River Falls, placing a limitation of $10,000 on the total of fees to special counsel for the state, which would produce several attacks on the attorney general's office.

Senator Joseph Clancy (D), Racine, asserted the practice of hiring attorneys outside that office to prosecute cases "is a racket, that's all." Senator White said the office "has been going downhill. You can't get a good lawyer to take the office."

Senator Maurice Cockley (R), Beloit, centered his fire on Harold M. Wilkie, president of the University of Wisconsin board of regents and special state counsel in the Wisconsin Telephone company rate cases. Cockley declared Wilkie lobbies for insurance companies, "does the governor's dirty work in the board of regents" and then gets money from the state besides.

This amendment was rejected, 19 to 14.

First Senate Test

The first test came on an amendment by Senator White which would have restored to the specific appropriation for transportation of rural school students the 15 per cent cut made by the bill under the flexible provisions.

On the roll call all 16 Progressives, their two regular allies—Senators Philip Nelson (R), Maple, and Arthur Zimny (D), Milwaukee—and Senator Conrad Shearer (R), Kenosha, voted to reject White's amendment.

A second amendment by White to strike out payment of $6,000 to Miss Marie Sullivan of Milwaukee, State Teachers' college to settle a claim, was rejected, 18 to 15. Senators Shearer, James Callahan (D), Milwaukee, and John Cassman (R), Denmark, shifted their positions from those on the first roll call.

There was little debate on the first amendment, but Senator Harry Bolens (D), Port Washington, stirred up a fight on the second amendment with a declaration the senate would be setting a dangerous precedent "by sneaking a disputed claim through the legislature in the executive budget bill."

Asks Amendment To Let New Board Retain Old Posts

Madison—(AP)—Assemblyman David Suman (P), Two Rivers, introduced today an amendment to the new labor disputes act which would permit the three members of the state labor relations board, appointed on a temporary basis, to serve indefinitely without giving up their present positions.

The board members refused to accept permanent appointments because the new law required them to devote full time to their board duties.

Suman's amendment eliminates that provision and also allows an appropriation of $5,000 to the board may begin actual work on the settlement of labor troubles. Its original appropriation would not start until July 1.

Members of the board are Prof. Edwin E. Witte, chairman of the University of Wisconsin economics department; Voyta Wrabets, chairman of the state industrial commission, and the Rev. Francis J. Haas, president of St. Francis seminary, Milwaukee.

Yellowley Faces Contempt Action In Federal Court

Alcohol Unit Investigator Also Must Appear For Hearing

Chicago—(AP)—E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor of the government alcohol tax unit, and L. Z. Baker, unit investigator, were given until May 6 by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for allegedly tampering with the federal grand jury.

Judge Wilkerson's action was presented on a petition filed by United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe alleging that Yellowley and Baker held a private conference with the foreman of the April grand jury.

The district attorney's petition was filed at the request of Judge Wilkerson and was based, Igoe said, on an affidavit of Sidney S. Eckstone, grand jury foreman.

Eckstone's affidavit recited, the district attorney said, that Yellowley and Baker, knowing that Eckstone was foreman of the federal grand jury, held a private conference with him in a room of a downtown hotel on the night of April 21.

The grand jury was discharged the following day by Judge Wilkerson after it had made a report.

Both Yellowley and Baker, as well as the officials and agents of the alcohol tax unit, called before the jury under subpoenas. Police Commissioner James P. Allman was also a witness.

They were summoned before the investigating body as the result of a controversy between Yellowley's office on one side and the district attorney and federal judges regarding the conduct of Yellowley and his agents in handling of revenue law violations.

Robinson Backs Economy Program

Supports Byrnes Proposal For Flat 10 Per Cent Reduction

Washington—(AP)—Senator Robinson (D-Ark.) endorsed today the proposal of Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) to make a flat 10 per cent cut in all appropriations, exclusive of fixed charges, with discretionary power for department heads to transfer the slash from bureau to bureau.

Robinson told reporters he would prefer the Byrnes method to the proposal that 15 per cent of all appropriations be impounded, with discretion vested in the resident to release additional funds.

Robinson said he also would support reduction of next year's relief appropriation to $1,000,000,000 instead of the $1,500,000,000 recommended by President Roosevelt, "if upon investigation it is found practicable to do so."

Norman Hapgood Dies in New York

Famous Editor Was Political Associate of Alfred E. Smith

New York—(AP)—Norman Hapgood, 69, prominent author and editor and political associate of Alfred E. Smith in his terms as governor of New York, died today following an operation.

At his home, it was said the editor had been ill for several weeks and death followed an operation. He died at the New York hospital.

In the second Wilson administration, Hapgood was United States minister to Denmark.

From a dramatic critic's job on the New York Commercial Advertiser, a few years after his graduation from Harvard in 1893, Hapgood became one of the best known magazine editors in the nation.

In 1903, he became editor of Collier's Weekly, a position which he held until he went with Harper's Weekly in 1913 as editor.

Long a student of politics and government, he was a supporter of Woodrow Wilson, who made him minister to Denmark in February, 1919.

When Smith became governor of New York, Hapgood joined the close circle of advisers and was a frequent conferee on social, economic and political matters. With the late Henry Moskowitz—who was the husband of Mrs. Belle Moskowitz, the former governor's political secretary for many years—Hapgood chronicled the life of Smith in the book "Up From City Streets."

Ashurst Sees 50 Senate Votes for Court Proposal

Committee Chairman Predicts Passage 'This Year or Next'

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz.) of the senate judiciary committee asserted today that there were 50 votes in the senate for the Roosevelt court bill and that it would pass "this year or next."

Saying he was not discouraged by the announcement of three threats to uncommitted senators that they would oppose the bill, he said they were opposed to the president's plan, Ashurst told reporters he was optimistic about the outcome of the controversy over the legislation.

On the other hand, opponents expressed "confidence that they had the whip hand in the judiciary committee and in the senate itself."

The announcement that Senators McCarran (D-Nev.), Hatch (D-N.M.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) would oppose the Roosevelt bill caused the foes to count a clear majority in the committee.

In discussing the possibility of a vote next year, Ashurst said he did not mean to forecast that the decision would be delayed until then, but merely intended to say that the bill eventually would pass.

"I think we will vote this year," Ashurst said. "I don't believe there is any intention on the part of opponents to filibuster. We'll get a vote after about two months' debate."

No hint came from administration quarters as to whether President Roosevelt might agree to any compromise.

Some of those on his side said privately they hoped he would accept a modification. Some were reported urging him to withdraw the bill entirely or drop it for the present in the hope that time would bring a natural shake-up in the court.

Firestone Company and Workers in Agreement Providing 36-Hour Week

Akron, Ohio—(AP)—The first standard 36-hour week among the nation's major industries was provided today in an agreement signed by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers to end an 8-week-old strike at the company's large South Akron plant.

Leaders of the pioneer Committee for Industrial Organization, who will submit the contract to the Firestone local for ratification tomorrow morning, claimed their first signed agreement with a major tire manufacturer gave them, in effect, sole collective bargaining rights.

The union pledged not to stay or tolerate any sit-down or strike or strikes or other stoppage of work at Firestone, closely following identical action by other members of the rubber capital's "big three"—Goodyear and Goodrich—agreed to discontinue financial and other support to its employee representation group, under strikers' fire as a company union.

Costello Trial Launched Today

Kenosha Assemblyman Not Present at Hearing In Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(AP)—Emil Costello, Kenosha assemblyman and state chairman of the C. I. O. provisional committee, was not present at his trial today before the executive board of the state federation of labor to face charges he was disloyal to the federation.

Directors who conducted the trial behind closed doors included William H. Sommers, Racine; Arthur S. Zander, Madison; Raymond A. Richards, Wisconsin Rapids; David Stigman, Two Rivers; and Henry Ohl, Jr., John J. Handley, J. F. Friedrich, Walter Zechel, Milwaukee, and George J. Schneider, Appleton.

Suspension of Costello, a member of the board, as an officer of the state federation of labor has been asked in the formal charges drafted by a special committee after the executive board demanded Costello either resign or stand trial.

Costello refused to resign.

One charge was that Costello "has taken orders and followed the dictation of the Communist party, the aim of which is the disruption and destruction of the American Federation of Labor and its affiliates."

Other accusations were that Costello, as a member of the executive board of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor "sought to ridicule and discredit officers of both the American Federation of Labor and the Wisconsin Federation of Labor," that he fostered "dual unionism" and subordinated the interests of the state federation to other labor organizations.

Costello was added to the state federation's board last July at the convention in Beaver Dam. He was elected to his first term in the state legislature last fall.

Three Killed in Attempt to Flee In West Virginia

Fourth Convict in Plot to Escape Prison Reported Dying

Moundsville, W. Va.—(AP)—The warden's office reported three inmates were killed and a fourth critically injured in an attempted prison break today at West Virginia state penitentiary.

An attaché of the office of Warden C. F. McClinton said guards shot the prisoners as they attempted to escape in a prison truck. Information was not available as to whether others in the prison colony of 1,800 men were involved in the attempted break.

Captain C. M. Stone, deputy warden, said:

"Three prisoners are dead and another is dying as a result of a delivery attempt at the penitentiary wagon gate. Four convicts hopped on a prison truck as it was leaving the yard, overpowered the trusty driver and drove the truck full of prisoners out of the gate. The driver lost control of the truck and it wrecked against a large scale near the outer gate."

One of the guards on the wall near the gate saw the attempted break and opened fire with a machine gun after sounding a general alarm. Stone said the outbreak was subdued quickly and all the prisoners were locked in their cells.

Wedding In Snouty Society

The bride, Butira Rangona, and maids wore white satin, lace. The groom, Jumbo Tooh, and best man were in cutaway, grey trowsers. Two other elephants held the bride's veil at this, the world's first all-pachyderm wedding, recently in Los Angeles. Crowds, laughter, publicity. Bride and groom didn't mind. Too thick-skinned even to appreciate publicity of successful classified want-ads in The Post-Crescent. But people like them. They liked this one and rented the apartment:

McKINLEY ST., E. 227 — New all modern duplex, 5 rooms, garage. Inquire 225 E. McKinley.

Had about 15 calls and rented the apartment after the first time the ad appeared.

Rate Reduction Case Back to Commission

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin Telephone company rate reduction case, which the utility is fighting in Dane county circuit court, went back to the public service commission today for a determination by that body whether it will modify its rate adjustments or let them stand.

This procedure was required by law after taking of testimony before Judge C. Hoppmann on the company's appeal was completed.

Frederick Sammons, attorney for the utility, proposed to Commission Counsel Harold M. Wilkie that they dispense with this step in the proceedings on the ground the case had been before the commission for six years.

Wilkie would not agree, however, because a new commissioner, Robert A. Nixon, has been appointed.

Acting City Manager Named for Cincinnati

Cincinnati—(AP)—City Solicitor John D. Ellis became acting city manager of Cincinnati today, the council continued in apparent deadlock over a successor to Clarence A. Dykstra.

Dykstra headed by automobile for Madison, Wis., where on Saturday he takes over the presidency of the University of Wisconsin.

Considerable interest attached to the presence in the city of Ralph L. Harding of Washington, D. C. One of several prospective appointees whose names were submitted to council by a special committee charged with investigating qualifications of candidates.

Predicts Clubwomen to Oppose Court Program

Tulsa, Okla.—(AP)—A prediction that clubwomen would vote opposition to the president's supreme court plan was made today at the annual council meeting of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

A club member, in an office which she said enabled her to sound out sentiment, withheld use of her name but said she "felt sure" the resolution of opposition would carry when it is voted on Friday.

"I've observed the trend impartially," she said, "and though there may be an upset, I don't see how it can fail."

A debate is scheduled tonight between Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, opposed to the Roosevelt judiciary program, and Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, in favor of it.

Prosecutor Retained By Coal Firms. He Says

Washington—(AP)—Daniel Boone Smith, young conventionalist attorney for Harlan county, Ky., testified at a senate inquiry today that he had accepted retainers from three coal companies ever since he took office in January 1934.

Smith, who said he handled all prosecutions in Harlan county, acknowledged that there was "some times a conflict of interest" between his clients and the public interest, but insisted:

"I made it very plain to the coal companies that I was a prosecutor first and represented them second."

Other witnesses before the committee had testified previously that the Harlan mine union members could get "no protection" from the local courts because they were "dominated" by the coal companies.

Ohio River Waters Continue to Recede

Wheeling, W. Va.—(AP)—The Ohio river valley made rapid progress toward normalcy today as the menace of its third flood in 13 months flattened out downstream.

The swirling muddy waters were still 5 feet above flood stage here this morning but the river was expected to return to its banks before nightfall.

The crest had moved into the vicinity of Parkersburg, W. Va., where little damage was expected from a stage of 39 feet, three above flood level.

No estimate of the damage was available but the flood claimed a toll of nine lives in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The ninth death occurred last night when 9-year-old James Kovacic tumbled into the swollen Conemaugh river at Johnstown, Pa.

Asks Amendment To Let New Board Retain Old Posts

Madison—(AP)—Assemblyman David Suman (P), Two Rivers, introduced today an amendment to the new labor disputes act which would permit the three members of the state labor relations board, appointed on a temporary basis, to serve indefinitely without giving up their present positions.

The board members refused to accept permanent appointments because the new law required them to devote full time to their board duties.

Suman's amendment eliminates that provision and also allows an appropriation of $5,000 to the board may begin actual work on the settlement of labor troubles. Its original appropriation would not start until July 1.

Members of the board are Prof. Edwin E. Witte, chairman of the University of Wisconsin economics department; Voyta Wrabets, chairman of the state industrial commission, and the Rev. Francis J. Haas, president of St. Francis seminary, Milwaukee.

Expect Council To Appoint City Physician Friday

Term of Dr. J. C. Troxel, Present Office Holder, Expires May 1

An adjourned meeting of the common council will be held at 7:30 Friday evening to fill the combined office of city physician and health officer. The term of Dr. J. C. Troxel, present city physician who is seeking reappointment, expires May 1.

Action on the appointment was deferred when the new council was organized recently after a proposal was made to permit the officer to do private practice. One of the last acts of the old council was to combine the offices of city physician and health officer and prohibit private practice.

The new council at its last meeting rescinded the action of the old council and deferred the appointment so that additional applications for the job could be made. Several aldermen said that a number of qualified physicians would not apply for the position with the private practice restriction because the yearly salary of $3,000 for the office was insufficient if the job was "full time."

Five Applicants

At present there are five applications for the job. Applicants are Dr. Troxel, Dr. W. C. Felton, Dr. James Nissbaum, Dr. Albert J. Gloss and Dr. F. J. Huberty.

A report on a legislative meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities held at Madison Monday and attended by Mayor Goodland, City Attorney Harry Hoeftel and Alderman Robert De Land, will be given the council by the mayor.

An informal meeting of the council after the regular session may be called by Mayor Goodland to discuss the city's summer work program.

Agree Federal Aid Won't Top Figure Set by Roosevelt

Mayors Believe Fund Will Be Exhausted in February of 1938

Washington—Officials of the United States Conference of Mayors, which has advocated increased federal relief spending, conceded today that congress would not exceed the $1,500,000,000 fund suggested by President Roosevelt.

The group, which had asked a federal expenditure of $2,200,000,000, declared the smaller sum would last only from July until February unless works progress administration policy is revised.

If the policy is changed, the mayors said, "a lot more employables are going to be dumped back on cities and states."

In the halls of congress, there was talk of compromise with the "economy bloc" by cutting $300,000,000 from the president's relief estimate. Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) and others have demanded that relief costs be reduced to an even billion dollars.

The relief appropriation was only one phase of general economy debate. Speaker Bankhead said Mr. Roosevelt had approved a suggestion for impounding 15 per cent of all appropriations for next year, to be used only when the president found need for it.

The house late yesterday approved second deficiency appropriation bill, providing $83,146,943 for TVA and other agencies.

Burden on Property

Discussing the attitude of the conference of mayors toward economy proposals, Secretary Paul V. Betters predicted a cut in federal relief spending would place an additional burden on real estate owners.

About 87 per cent of the revenue in America's 100 largest cities is derived from general property taxes, he explained.

"The impression has been left that the federal government has been holding the bag, paying too big a share," he said.

"Well, people who spread that idea overlooked five important and extensive items that federal government doesn't touch. First, there's the cost of direct relief to unemployed; second, the local share of the social security program; third, about 20 per cent of the cost of WPA; fourth, 55 per cent of cost of PWA projects; and fifth, supplemental direct relief to hundreds of thousands of WPA workers whose wages aren't adequate to care for a family."

FOUR LOSE LIVES AS ONTARIO FLOOD WRECKS TRAIN
Here are two views of a Canadian National Chicago to Montreal passenger train which was wrecked near Beachville, Ont., when it struck a washout caused by the flood waters which swept over large portions of western Ontario. Two trainmen and a transient were killed and an Ingersoll, Ont., physician, was drowned while hurrying to the scene. These pictures show the train, some cars upended and others almost submerged in the swirling flood waters.

Monday Night Club Pays Tribute to Former Chiefs

Wausau—Past presidents of the Monday Night club were honored by that organization when they met at the library club rooms Monday evening. The affair was in charge of the president, Mrs. Dan Burnham, and directly following the regular business meeting and a talk by Miss Estelle Jung, county nurse, who discussed tuberculosis and means of prevention and urged cooperation of club members in the fight against it. Mrs. P. M. Olsson, oldest president present, was invited to speak.

Mrs. Olsson joined the club in 1908, when the club with a membership of 35 was meeting in homes of its members, usually with Mrs. Emma Woodward. She was president of the club for two years, 1912-14 and 1915-16, and during 1914 the library was built. No club rooms had been provided in the library, so the Monday Night club and the Woman's club immediately started a campaign to raise money for the purpose. Their first venture was in gathering and selling of old papers. These were collected and stored in barns of the members until a sufficient quantity was ready for shipping, usually by local merchants.

At one time a carload was sold, for which $85 was realized. "Word suppers" were another means of raising funds and they netted the club $670 within a short time. With so much money on hand a basement room in the library was equipped with chairs, curtains, piano, dishes, etc., and $700 left to purchase library books.

Of the 35 members at the time of her presidency, only 16 remain; and only two charter members, Mrs. R. N. Roberts of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Hugo Lea, who was unable to be present.

Mrs. F. R. Fisher served the club for two terms, 1923-24 and 1924-25 and during her term the district convention met in Wausau.

Mrs. Guy Mumbroe, president in 1928-29 and 1929-30, referred to the consternation among older club members when bridge parties were held for the purpose of raising money. She also told of a certificate of deposit of $50 which the club donated to the Wausau Garden club to aid in the purchase of North park, a tract of land which has since proven a "white elephant."

Mrs. Rob Holly was another president who was able to be present. Her term of office was during 1930-31 and 1931-32.

The fifteenth anniversary of the club was celebrated while Mrs. A. J. Hancock presided, in 1933. Her term continued until 1937 when Mrs. James Carew took the office. She greeted the club members with an original song she sang to the tune of "Little Old Lady." She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Brenna Gibson.

Mrs. Burnham, who has been president since 1935, introduced each of the past presidents with a bit of poetry, also presenting each with a rose.

Interpersed during the evening were vocal selections by Mrs. Carl Bacher, accompanied by Miss Gibson. She sang "Long, Long Ago," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Auld Lang Syne."

As a tribute to the members who are deceased, Miss Mary Benick read "Footsteps of Angels" from Longfellow's "Voices of the Night."

Mrs. A. J. Hancock, district president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, spent Monday in Wausau, where she attended a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Wausau club. She with Mrs. M. R. Laird of Marshfield, immediate past president, were guests of honor of the Wausau Woman's club which celebrated their sixtieth anniversary and Founder's day.

Miss Mary Waterstreet, of Green Bay also was present, and entertained the club with an original sketch. Delegates to the fifth annual convention of the Seventh district, Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Stevens Point May 13-14 are Mrs. Dan Burnham, first delegate; Mrs. Tom Browne, Mrs. F. Chandler and Mrs. George Lord. Alternates are Mrs. Sam Salan, Mrs. F. E. Calkins and Mrs. Guy Mumbroe.

Highlights of the convention will include an address by Dr. Gilbert Cox, Appleton; "An Afternoon in the Piccadilly Bookshop," by Dr. L. A. Parr, Green Bay; and an address, "Peace," by Dr. Mosley, Madison.

Mrs. O. A. Smith of the local club is corresponding secretary for the organization.

Fear Damage by Rising Water in Fond du Lac River

Residents of Flood Areas Warned by City Officials to be on Guard

Fond du Lac officials Wednesday warned residents of the city's flood areas to be on guard against rising water in the Fond du Lac river.

The warning followed an announcement by Allan Tripp, president of the Association for Relief of High Water, that rain for several days and rapid thawing at the headwaters of rivers flowing into Lake Winnebago are creating a serious flood menace.

The Fond du Lac officials said Lake Winnebago is very high and that if rains continue it is not impossible that the fall, coupled with backing up of water from the lake into the mouth of the river, might bring danger.

To Meet With Tripp

Mayor Albert J. Rosenthal planned today to confer with Mr. Tripp at Fremont on the possibilities of opening flood gates at the Neenah and Menasha dams to lower the level of the lake. Lake Winnebago is now free from ice and its level is said to be higher now than at any time during the winter.

Mr. Tripp declared Tuesday that if the rains continue and several gates at Neenah are not opened 90,000 acres of tillable land along the Wolf river will be under water. He said the water at Gil's Landing, below Fremont, is now eight inches below flood level and rising. He said 20,000 acres of land along the Wolf river already are under water and riparians along the river and in the Winnebago basin face serious high water damage again this season.

Lake Level Up

United States engineers at Milwaukee were asked Tuesday by Mr. Tripp to open four more gates at the Neenah and Menasha dams to avert further damage. He said a 15-inch level on Lake Winnebago, above the crest of the Menasha dam, is necessary to protect waterfront property but that the level at Oshkosh Tuesday was 16 1/2 inches, a 5-inch rise since last week.

Damage along the Lake Winnebago shores begins at the 18-inch level, Mr. Tripp warned. He declared government engineers may insist on allowing the water to reach 21 1/2 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam and that this and the prospect of continued rains place before the riparians the perennial flood menace.

He again urged permanent solution of the flood problem in the Fox river valley by construction of reservoirs near the headwaters of the rivers and streams draining it.

200 Caddies to Complete Vocational School Course

More than 200 Appleton youths will complete work in the vocational school caddies course Friday afternoon and receive certificates of proficiency, Jake Mathews, pro at Riverview Country club and class instructor, announced today. Final examinations were given Tuesday at the school.

Because of the many students, two classes were formed which met each Tuesday and Friday afternoon for the last five weeks. One class was for boys who have had caddy experience while the other was for boys without experience.

The "Manual for Caddies" as issued by the Chicago Park district, Burnham park, was used as the class textbook. The book contains all the do's and don'ts for caddies.

Give Examinations

Examinations were given once a week with Mr. Mathews quizzing the students on correct golfing rules, the need for courtesy, the relation between golfer and caddy and other fundamental topics.

According to rules laid down by golfing leaders, a player has the right to expect the following services from a caddy: that he will pay strict attention without any playing, fooling or talking; that he will place all divots and smooth over holes made in sand traps; that he will be at the player's side with his clubs when the player comes up to his ball.

That he will keep his eye on player's ball and mark it so he can go directly to it; that he will be able to hand the player the right club when needed; that he will not start ahead of the player until he has completed his shot.

Rules for Caddies

Rules for caddies which were stressed during the 5-week course include: the caddy must be polite to members, never smoke or swear, not sit on benches, greens or tees, know all the clubs, not be on the course unless working or during time specified for caddy golfing, carry clubs and never drag them.

The caddy must never give advice unless asked, never place feet near or have shadow on hole when tending on the green, always see that flag stick is loose when tending hole, never allow a ball to strike him, stop flag from fluttering when on the green, be able to follow balls, never drop or throw clubs on the ground, never lag behind the player, never talk when a player is making a stroke.

Kohler Sees Drive In Washington for Unchecked Power

Washington—Two speakers at the United States Chamber of Commerce convention disagreed today over the future of the American form of government.

Walter J. Kohler, Wisconsin manufacturer, said in a prepared address that "the effectiveness of constitutional protection" of liberty "has been impaired or perhaps even destroyed without amending the constitution."

"It is now proposed to carry further the drive toward centralization and unchecked power," he asserted, "still without amending the constitution."

Raymond N. Ball, Rochester, N. Y., banker, said he was "not disturbed, as yet, about a radical change in our form of government."

May Change System

Ball, reviewing banking conditions, said that if the existing banking system repeats its failure of the early 1930's, "we may see our cherished unit banking system entirely eliminated, and, in response to the demands of the general public, government ownership and operation substituted in its place."

He urged research into existing practices to improve the banking system.

Kohler said that "millions of citizens appear unaware that they are being ground between hidden taxes on the one hand and on the other, by the inflationary influence of an unbalanced budget and a huge and constantly growing national debt."

"Nearly every increase of central power appears to grow out of a so-called 'crisis' of one kind or another," he continued.

"The latest 'crisis' is concerned with inflation; if seems that the supreme court must be packed, or else we shall have another 1929."

White House Is Paving Way for Control of Prices

Roosevelt Favors Government Supervision, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—The Roosevelt administration is paving the way for the passage of a law by congress giving the federal trade commission and similar tribunals in specialized fields the power of price control.

Within the last 24 hours, the White House has released several statements which, when pieced together, can only mean one thing—federal control of prices in basic commodities and possibly in by-products sold at retail.

On the surface, it might seem as if there was a conflict or inconsistency between President Roosevelt's espousal of the Guffey-Vinson law, which he signed one day this week, and his disclosure the next day of a letter sent him by Attorney General Cummings arguing for competition and a restatement and reinforcement of the anti-trust laws. Likewise, there may seem to be a contradiction between the legalized monopoly and price-fixing granted to coal producers under the Guffey law and the president's notification to house and senate leaders that he wants action held up on the Miller-Tydings bill which would enable prices of certain articles to be maintained when resold by manufacturers through dealers and other outlets.

The truth is the whole thing pieces together symmetrically. Mr. Roosevelt is against price-fixing when private companies do it, but he is for it when the government has a control or supervision, as in the Guffey coal bill.

Favors Control
Mr. Roosevelt is against monopoly which is alleged to lead to collusion in price-fixing in basic industries like steel, but he favors government control of prices through a commission or tribunal specializing in that subject.

When the attorney general says in his letter that the anti-trust laws need revision, he points out that "the machinery of the courts is not geared to the handling of the social and economic factors necessarily involved; and many persons and communities seriously affected cannot be parties to a court proceeding under the anti-trust laws."

So it might also be argued about the Guffey act, that persons and communities affected and social and economic factors may be involved and yet not get protection under the Guffey act. Still, the New Deal will answer, that's the function of the "consumers' counsel" and the national bituminous coal commission itself.

The attorney general's letter was written undoubtedly for the purpose of expressing a point of view desired by the president himself. Rarely if ever nowadays does anything formal come from a cabinet officer that isn't suspected of having been approved in advance by the White House, so that in effect the letter is considered as Mr. Roosevelt's own viewpoint.

The latest pronouncement, therefore, asking for a restatement of the anti-trust laws on the ground that they are not adequate, is taken to mean that the administration is really wants to get new powers to deal broadly with industry. Instead of being content to put into the Guffey law and into other measures a provision suspending the anti-trust laws, something that simply puts up men like Senator Borah and other true liberals who do not believe in the fascist philosophy of price-fixing now being embraced by the administration, the plan is to revise the idea anti-trust law structure. The idea is to outlaw monopoly and trusts and proclaim free competition as the purpose, but yet give the federal government certain power over price control which amounts to legalizing the existing producers in groups resembling European cartels, now Americanized under the word "codes" such as the NRA started.

The Miller-Tydings bill and the act that 40 states have laws on resale price maintenance is a disturbing influence in the administration's general plan, hence the move to revise it. The administration may make up the re-sale maintenance idea or the so-called "loss leader" in another form, but it is moving slowly till it gets broad general powers. The Robinson-Palman act is an example of the confusion which the administration has encountered in going at the problem of trying to regulate business piece-meal. What is desired by the president undoubtedly is price control by government commission. The need for this has been emphasized recently by members of his official staff, including Governor Eccles, of the federal reserve board, who says it is necessary to prevent inflation and a boom.

Await Action on Count
For the moment, the department of justice and the federal trade commission are being asked to study these questions, but the truth is the administration wants to wait till the supreme court of the United States is properly packed with judges of its own choosing so that the next step to control all business will not be upset by a supreme court decision. Hence, between now and the time the present controversy over the size of the court is settled, methods of imposing price control will be studied.

Meanwhile, the administration is not interfering by the passage of fragments of legislation on miscellaneous phases of the matter when the whole business structure is due to undergo a surgical operation at its hands to regulate prices, and of course, eliminate profits.

Building Trades Council Member Answers Protest

Ray Billings, Executive Board Member, Issues Statement

An answer to the protest of contractors who are opposed to the methods used by the Appleton Building Trades Council in forcing contractors to sign "closed shop" agreements was made in a statement issued this morning by Ray Billings, a member of the council's executive board.

Billings questioned the identity of the group of men who signed the protest to the Building Trades council and charged that some members of the group sponsoring the protest were not contractors. Quoting from the newspaper article, the board member said that 27 mason contractors had signed the first of a series of protests from the Committee on Building Progress.

He said: "In collecting the title 'Building Progress,' let me apply the meaning of the several words in the title to see how befitting it is to the conditions as now exist in the building industry. I must admit there are a few men in the industry that have signed the protest that have been very fair competitors and that their estimates and proposals are always in line, and I think in all fairness to the general public, the parties signing these protests should have made known their names by publication in the same newspaper article."

"Men Are Underpaid"

"It is true that many men employed in the construction industry have been underpaid and at the present time are working for less than the minimum scale set up by the Wisconsin Fair Practice Act. Many of the men affiliated with the industry have at some time or other been on relief, only because this income was too small to provide for their families. The average earnings of a building mechanic have been very low due to unfair competition among contractors and breaking of the minimum wage scale set up by the Fair Practice Act."

"Competition among the contractors has been very unfair, not only on the wage scale, but on furnishing inferior materials and poor workmanship which is a result of no enforcement of building regulations," Billings said.

He cited an alleged instance in Appleton where a contractor on a residence where he employed two laborers at 25 cents an hour in violation of the state law which provides for a minimum of 50 cents per hour for this work. He said the contractor was unable to complete the work and again took advantage of the laborers, compelling them to share in his loss.

"Materials Increase in Price"

He asked if the public was informed of the percentage of increase in the wage scale in comparison with the increase in the cost of materials in the last few months. The wage scale is regulated by the supply and demand and that a strong organization of manufacturers and retailers govern a fair practice of competition.

These organizations, he continued, were only for the regulation of the various business lines and for this reason it was his belief that there should be some regulation of the building industry with consideration of the workers.

"Why not give some protection to the man who builds his own little home, probably the only one in a lifetime?" Billings said. "He ought to have standards of workmanship that will be a credit to a community, the building industry, contractors and employees."

Asks for Local Standards

"Give us a local standard of construction, a local building inspection, enforcement of zoning and building ordinances, a more stringent enforcement of regulations by the Board of Appeals and lastly enforcement of the wage scale as set up by the Fair Trade Practice Act," he said.

Billings' statement came after the Committee on Building Progress had been organized with representation from five divisions of the building industry. Monday mason contractors issued the first of what the Building Progress committee said was to be a series of protests from the Appleton contractors who are opposed to methods of the Appleton Building Trades council in enforcing a "closed shop." The council declared a 2-day holiday last week and conducted by the non-union workers to join the walkout in an attempt to force contractors to sign agreements with the council.

A trace was called Wednesday morning and workers resumed their jobs, but union workers have since refused to use materials, merchandise or commodities hauled by non-union truck drivers.

600 Oppose Bill For Grading of Cheese by State

Cheesemakers, Farmers Almost Unanimous at Tri-County Meeting

Hilbert—About 600 cheesemakers and farmers from Calumet, Manitowish and Sheboygan counties jammed Vollmer's hall here last night to oppose bill 521A, designed to provide for state grading of cheese in Wisconsin.

Arguments for and against the proposal were presented but a rising vote at the close of the meeting showed only one person in favor of the proposal and all others against.

The bill provides that state inspectors grade the cheese produced in Wisconsin factories and that the cost of grading be paid by the factory, cooperative or individual for whom the work is done. The cost could not, under the provisions of the bill, exceed 10 cents per hundred pounds of cheese graded. The bill is now in committee.

The meeting last night was called by the Calumet County Cheesemakers association of which Henry Leibzeit, rural route, Hilbert, is president.

Opens Meeting

Henry Dames, Calumet county farmer, was chairman of the session and opposed the state grading proposal when he opened the discussion.

Harry H. Jack, Hortonville, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, and F. Schultheiss, a commissioner of the state department of agriculture and markets, both spoke in support of the proposal as a measure designed to assure high quality, and as a result, higher prices, for Wisconsin cheese.

H. P. Malloy, secretary of the Wisconsin Cheese Publicity association, opposed the plan, however, holding that it was desired by only a few of the larger cheese manufacturers and that it would be actively opposed by the smaller producers.

His Imports

Thomas Dove, Stockbridge farmer, contended that a state grading program is unnecessary and suggested that instead of placing additional burdens on Wisconsin farmers and cheesemakers, efforts might be made to check foreign imports. H. Kabitzke, Marion, representing the district cheesemakers association, also spoke in opposition to the measure.

When Henry Peters, town of Harrison, asked for a rising vote on the bill, all except one rose in opposition to the proposed law. The crowd cheered when the vote was taken.

Demands Pension Plans For Two Big Villages

Madison—(P)—Carl N. Hill, Madison, attorney for the Wisconsin Police Chiefs association, charged yesterday before a senate committee that the villages of Whitefish Bay and Shorewood, Milwaukee county, are 25 years behind the times because their policemen and firemen have no pension plan and are not under civil service.

He and Attorney Roland J. Steinle, Milwaukee, counsel for the Wisconsin Firemen's association, urged support of a bill requiring the villages to have police and fire commissions and to establish retirement plans.

Under the pension systems members of the local departments would contribute 1 per cent of their salaries and the village treasuries would create trust funds, sufficient to retire officers with 22 years of service at half pay.

It was all very confusing to Earl C. Dutro (bareheaded), Milwaukee restaurant manager, when two sets of pickets began pacing up and down in front of his establishment. The American Federation of Labor sign bearers sought to impress that the restaurant was fair to organized labor, while C.I.O. pickets carried signs saying it was unfair.

London Takes on Changed Aspect as City Prepares for Coronation Day

London—(P)—Old London was in the full flush of pre-coronation peening today.

With only 13 days left before the day of grandeur—May 12—when Big Ben will boom forth at noon and a king will be crowned, it is a changed London.

What was the mall has become a long line of masts topped by heraldic lions. A "gateway of triumph" is rising at the foot of Whitehall. A "maypole" is being built at Charing Cross. Stands along Hyde park flaunt red white and blue bunting.

London, with gathering speed, is going gay.

Parliament square looks as though a circus were coming to town. Canvas covered grandstands block every view.

It is costing a great deal of money to make stolid, starchy London a city of festival. To "dress" four miles of streets in Westminster for example, will take $115,000.

The electric lights represent an estimated 10 billion candle power.

White and gold play a prominent part in the decorations that flutter in the April wind. Blue and White banners, too, are being hung.

The statue of Charles I. at Charing Cross, is being surrounded by banneted masts. There will be a living guard for the statue on coronation day.

Two 60-foot masts in Whitehall, carrying a large streamer and banners, will mark the entry to parliament square.

Long blue banners surmounted by golden crowns and white and gold flags drape the entrance into regent street from Piccadilly circus.

There will be three separate processions on the morning of May 12 when King George and Queen Elizabeth leave Buckingham palace for their trip to Westminster abbey.

The first leaving the palace at 9:30 a. m. will be headed by two motorcycle policemen, providing something of an American touch.

Then will come an officer of the war staff, trumpeters, a squadron of guards, a military band and the first division of the captain's escort of guards.

Following will be a long line of state landaus with royal guests and royalty's representatives. The second division of captain's escort of guards will complete the unit, with mounted police on all sides of the visiting royalty.

Plan 1-Day Camp For Valley Clubs

Cub pack members of Valley Council Boy Scouts will hold a 1-day camp at Erb park Saturday, June 5, the cubbing committee decided last night at a meeting in the scout office in the Irving Zuelke building. Cubs from Appleton, Menasha, Clintonville and Shawano are expected to attend.

The Cubs will meet at the park in the morning and set up tents and other camping equipment. The committee which met last night included T. B. Wadsworth, cubbing chairman, and H. H. Hubbard, Appleton, Louis Hafemeister and Elmer Butsky, Menasha, Norman Hanson and Joseph Hough, Clintonville.

A pet show, baseball games and a handicraft contest will feature entertainment at the camp. Awards for cubs of wolf, lion and bear ranking will be made at the close of the camp. Inter-den and inter-pack baseball games also are scheduled.

Four Youths Start for Mexico but Change Minds

Four youths, all 17 years old, were reported missing and on their way to Mexico yesterday, but apparently decided that Mexico was a long ways off and were back at their homes in Combined Locks and Kimberly last night, according to reports at the sheriff's office. Lawrence Weyenberg, Peter Van Lys and Herman Van Cuyck, Combined Locks, and Martin Weydeven, Kimberly, reached Milwaukee before turning around, the report indicated.

Fire Prevention Stressed By Jaces in 1-Week Drive

The removal of fire hazards in homes will be stressed by Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce members in their annual cleanup and paintup campaign next week.

Fire Chief George P. McGillan is cooperating in the move.

Chief McGillan reminded home owners this morning that during the winter months, basements and attics accumulate many fire hazards. While boxes of paper, oily cloths and other inflammable materials should not be allowed to collect, the annual spring, house-cleaning period usually reveals a number of accumulations, he said.

Accident prevention also will be stressed next week and it is expected that school children will participate in the move. Letters telling of club objectives in sponsoring the campaign were read in home rooms at the various schools this week.

Decoration of shop windows will be undertaken next week and a committee consisting of Elmer Gramenz and Wilmer Krueger have contacted all merchants and urged their participation in the drive. Posters supplied by the national committee on the cleanup and paintup project will be distributed next week.

Jaces working on the various committees include H. L. Davis, Jr., H. K. Derus, John Notebaart, Clarence Scherer, Fred Boughton, Glenn Arthur, Kenneth Raetz, Robert Nehls, Harry Hoeftel, Harold Aykens, Forster Cooper, Harold Finger, Walter Dixon and Roy McNeil.

Superior Scrip Bill Is Approved

Measure Authorizing New City Issue Sent to Governor LaFollette

Madison—(P)—The legislature sent to Governor LaFollette today a bill authorizing the city of Superior to issue new scrip for emergency financing purposes between now and July.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Philip Nelson (R), Maple, amends the present scrip law by providing the city may issue emergency certificates on the basis of its interest in delinquent property taxes over the last three years, instead of the preceding year only.

Senator Nelson said the city faced a difficult situation this year because current taxes, levied in 1936, have been tied up under affidavits of inability to pay under the tax extension law.

Such levies, he said, are delinquent until after the affidavits expire, and could not be used for issuance of new scrip.

However, he said, the city had an interest with the county in other taxes dating back three years, against which emergency certificates may be issued. The situation will correct itself in July, he said, when current taxes either will be paid or will become delinquent.

The bill was passed by both houses under suspension of the rules.

12 Added to Roll During April but 9 Were Discontinued

Outagamie county's outlay for old age assistance totalled $11,111.20 in April, a decrease of $88.42 from the March figure of $11,199.62, according to records of the county pension department.

The number of persons receiving assistance increased, however, from 595 to 599 including 331 men and 268 women. There were eight men and four women added to the roll in April but nine were discontinued during the same period. Six of them died and three moved out of the county.

Aid for dependent children increased from $7,694.59 in March to $7,610.21 in April, a difference of $84.38. Help was given in March to 317 families including 760 children, but the April roll included 773 children in 321 families, the records show.

Seven families including 22 children were added in April but three families including 9 children were dropped from the roll.

Kiwanians Told Religion's Force Is Unfathomable

Speaker Believes It Has Greatest Inspirational, Interpretative Power

"I am not so interested in saving persons' souls from hell in the hereafter as I am in saving them from the hell they are making for themselves right here on earth."

the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian church declared in discussing "The Functions of Religion in the Modern World" at a meeting of the Appleton Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at the Conway hotel.

The Rev. Mr. Bell asserted that religion is the "greatest inspirational and interpretative force" and described its function as teaching men to live for others, instead of themselves. Religion, he said, is the power that can analyze and solve the present economic revolution.

That the Wagner bill put human rights above property rights and that a happy medium could be derived through the function of religion is the belief of the speaker. He said most people are prejudiced either way. If they are capitalists they can only see the capitalist's point of view, and the same applies in the case of labor. Religion is the force that can be used to derive the medium, he thought.

Religion, he said, is the greatest inspirational force in the world. He gave three examples of what it had done for men he has known and how they had discovered their true selves by practicing the theories of religion. He said the denominational divisions did not interest him, it was just the interpretative and inspirational force accentuated by following its guidance.

"A book says 'Life Begins at Forty', on the stage 'Life Begins at 8:30', but I believe life begins when a man stops thinking of himself and begins to live for others," the Rev. Bell explained.

Religion can interpret the economic strife for which science two years ago could give no explanation, the speaker continued. Service and good fellowship is superficial when compared to the power of religion to solve our problems.

AMATEUR SLEUTHS

Recently the March of Time paid tribute to an amateur crime club in Elizabeth, N. J. It was composed of a number of amateur detectives in the city who put their various specialized talents to work in aiding the city's police department solve crimes.

Recently Life magazine declared: "A great many major crimes are solved by amateurs working with regular police officers."

This role of the amateur detective had been made much more practical in recent months. Detective magazines have changed their policies from presenting sensational fiction stories to describing actual unsolved cases, presenting pictures of men wanted all over the country, and in this way putting all their readers to work solving such crimes and apprehending nationally known criminals.

Radio programs are modeled along similar lines, and new forms of detective books such as the crime file series are devoted more and more to helping amateur detectives become trained to give their services in the war against crime.

The Elizabeth, N. J., club is the most practical achievement along such lines yet conceived. The town druggist gave his services in analyzing poisons and chemicals. A chemist in a manufacturing plant helped along similar lines. A dentist studied up on making plaster casts of such evidence as footprints. A local engineer offered his expert services as a ballistics hobbyist.

This group of interested men was called in to help solve all the difficult crime cases which occurred in this city, and spent their leisure time in aiding the police department unearth and run down clues. They solved an unbelievably large number of cases.

Such a group seems to predict the formation of like groups in other cities throughout the country, even a formation of a national club of amateur sleuths. There is no reason why police departments should not take advantage of such expert advice from amateurs, providing the latter are organized into a concrete group so that their advice does not hearken instead of aid police work.

TOBACCO LORE

Some library or other institution, one of these days, is to receive as a gift a noted collection acquired over the last 45 years and including 4,500 separate items, valued by experts at half a million to a million dollars. The surprising central theme of this valuable collection is merely tobacco! Yet it has been touched upon in so many different lines of human interest that the collector has assembled a varied array of manuscripts, first editions, legal documents and other items in 18 languages.

References to tobacco have been made by explorers, historians, herbalists, scientists, philologists, poets, dramatists, economists and novelists. They are found also in original proclamations, Privy Council letters, edicts, decrees and laws of both the New World and the Old.

The range of this collection suggests how much educational ground may be covered when a single idea is pursued through all its ramifications. That was the fact on which a famous educational experiment was based a few years ago, when students began with a single subject—the age of Pericles—and found that it led them through a rather broad college course, including history, literature, languages, mathematics, art, government, science, and so on. A lazy person would not learn much, but an eager and intelligent person could become well educated by pursuing almost any subject in this way.

FRANCO'S NEW STATE

So Europe has another dictatorship. Pardon us—another "authoritarian state." That is what the revolted area of Spain becomes, through the decree of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

From this distance, though, there seems to be little change except in name. General Franco may be issuing edicts and proclamations and declarations to bolster up his own hopes. He needs cheering lately, beaten as he has been on nearly every front, with the government forces growing steadily more confident.

The worst thing about that new party of Franco's is its name. He calls it the "Spanish Phalanx of Traditionalists and Offensive National Syndicalist Juntas." How could any movement win with a name like that?

Nevertheless, correspondents say, the war may drag on for quite a while, ending only when both sides are exhausted.

PRIVATE LANGUAGES

A justice of the Court of Appeals of New York the other day "reserved judgment" in a case involving the rental of moving pictures, because the contracts were drawn in movie lingo incomprehensible to outsiders.

"The parties," said the judge, "have used language understood, we must assume, by those cognizant of the special or technical meaning of words used in the profession or art of the parties. In that language we are illiterate."

The judge was willing to accept definitions of terms on which the opposing parties agreed. When they disagreed on the meanings of crucial words in the contract, on which the case was based, the judge declined to take the definitions of either side. It was up to them, he held, to supply suitable dictionaries. "They have not done so in this case," and so the court "must be made literate in a language in which it is now unschooled."

It was time such rebuke was issued to somebody. The use of special jargons by special groups—social workers, psychologists, followers of different sports, movie people and others—has come to be a great nuisance to the uninitiated and a great detriment to the English language. Since lawyers and judges are among the offending groups, however, the disgusted judge in this particular case might well do a little reform work in his own profession.

FRENCH FEMINISTS

American women, who have had nation-wide suffrage for 17 years read with surprise the recent news from Paris telling of a struggle the women of France are engaged in now. With most European women enfranchised, it seems strange that in so liberal a country as France the right has not yet been won.

French feminists are active, however, and may soon have the ballot. They refrained from public demonstrations for 10 months, in order not to make things any harder for the Blum government. But in the last few days they have broken out, holding mass-meetings and plastering the city with posters. A bill to give them the franchise and other civil rights has been pending in parliament, and they demand immediate action.

French women have been living all these years under the Code Napoleon. That famous soldier-statesman didn't think much of women in government. But his long reign is ending. And when French women get into the ballot booth and the legislative halls, the world will hear from them.

HEROIC PITCHING

An Ohio mayor has the right idea. He takes his responsibilities seriously, whether they require wrestling with the relief problem or eating doughnuts at a recreation center party.

The other day, in preparation for the approaching opener of the major league baseball season, the energetic mayor and his secretary, put in twenty minutes on a ball-throwing work-out. It seems that the mayor made a pretty wild throw at the opener in 1936. Both he and his secretary intended to have the ball go straight this time.

It's a good idea which other mayors, governors, or even president, might adopt. Throwing out that first ball may not come under the head of important public business, but a thing worth doing at all is worth doing well. And the discovery that some high public officials is unable to pitch a fair ball across the home plate might shake American youth's faith in democracy.

STAMP PROFITS

The recent celebration of fifteen years of service by the philatelic agency of the post-office department brought a report that reflects the widespread and intense interest in stamp collecting. This agency was established by Postmaster-General Hays, who noticed that stamp collectors were having trouble in getting good copies of first issues. At that time there were few collectors as compared with the number that now pursue the diversion, but they were worthy people and soon justified the expense of the service. During the first fiscal year, the agency sold stamps to the value of only $105,000.

The agency has grown so that this year the sales probably will run to $2,000,000. During the last fiscal year, the agency made $1,538 sales for a revenue of $1,845,000. The cost of overhead, salaries of personnel and producing the stamps is about $150,000 a year. It is estimated that only about 30 per cent of the stamps sold through this channel are used for postage. The yearly profit is at least $1,400,000. The department has taken steps to see that collectors obtain clear, well-centered stamps, a service which has been widely commended.

The volume of this business testifies to the extent of the philatelic boom. It was stimulated throughout the British empire by King George, father of the present King George, whose stamp collection included some of the rarest examples, and whose representatives, visited the markets of the world in his interest. In this country, President Roosevelt's fondness for the hobby has been stimulating. He took it up in a casual way during an illness, but soon succumbed to its allurements and now regards it as among the most interesting avocations.—Indianapolis News

It is obvious that I have done Ezekiel a grave injustice, and for that I apologize. As I wrote him in a letter yesterday, somewhere, and at some time, I have seen verses where the thought paralleled that which he expressed. My feeling in suggesting quotation marks came from that recollection, because it appeared that Ezekiel was quoting in order to illustrate his point about child labor legislation as it has been handled by the Supreme court. Unfortunately for me, the verses were written by Ezekiel.

And, as I also told him, the verses in question weren't as good as much of the material he has prepared for this space. You'll agree when you read "The Pines," below.

THE PINES

Oh, the sweetest birds are singing,
 And the same old echoes ringing,
 'neath the pines.
 All my fondest memories clinging,
 To the pines.
 And my heart would cease repining,
 Just to see the sun a-shining,
 through the pines.
 Just to see arbutus twining,
 'neath the pines.
 For through years I've been a-learning,
 That my heart is always yearning,
 for the pines.
 All my thoughts always returning,
 to the pines.
 O'h to see the red deer playing,
 And to hear the tree tops swaying,
 'neath the pines.
 All my thoughts are always straying,
 to the pines.
 For the same old moon is beaming,
 And the fire-flies light are gleaming,
 'neath the pines.
 And in fancy I am dreaming,
 'neath the pines.

Somehow, this has not been a very good week. The contributors are heckling me, the dentist is heckling me. I finally reached an agreement with the bank (try to prove a bank is wrong), and the better half had to take a cab home yesterday when I was detained and didn't meet her. It begins to look as though I can't do anything right.

Well, maybe there's some of that gift bottle of Scotch left.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

I hung a picture on my wall
 In such a sorry light
 Its loveliness was lost to all;
 It was a murky sight.
 Rechanging it, the sunlight, warm
 And beautiful, brought out its charm.
 I hung your presence in my mind,
 And in the hateful gloom,
 I could not see your heart, designed
 For a more tranquil room.
 Your worth was lost until above
 Shone the revealing light of love!

Personal Health Talks

THE QUESTION OF VITAL CAPACITY

In an article here recently we endeavored to explain about the physiology of breathing and how the "vital capacity" indicates an individual's physical fitness. Vital capacity is the sum of (1) the quantity of air breathed in and out of the lungs at each ordinary breath (usually less than a pint), (2) the quantity of air that can be expelled by the strongest effort after a normal expiration (this varies from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 pints) and (3) the quantity of air that can be taken in by the maximum effort after an ordinary quiet inspiration (this is of course the same as (2)). Average vital capacity of adult males is 3700 cubic centimeters (approximately 7 1/2 pints) and that of adult females is 3500 cubic centimeters (approximately 7 1/2 pints).

Reader inquires whether I mean that the greater the vital capacity the more physically fit the individual is regardless of sex, size, height, age, weight and habit especially as regards daily exercise, athletic activity, gymnastic training, and the like.

More thoughtful reading of the explanation of vital capacity as repeated above will answer half of the reader's queries. Of course sex and size and age should be taken into consideration. However, these factors are comparatively negligible, once the subject is past puberty, say 12 or 13 years of age. But the individual's habit as regards daily exercise, athletic activity, gymnastic training, belly breathing etc., has a good deal to do with his or her vital capacity. Reasonable physical training always increases individual vital capacity. Even so simple a practice as a few moments of belly breathing last thing at night as you settle down to sleep helps to maintain good vital capacity and, at least in my opinion, tends to prevent pneumonia, among other benefits. Can't stop here to describe belly breathing. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions.

Individuals whose vital capacity is low have a high diaphragm. Most lay readers won't know what this means. The diaphragm is the breathing muscle. Belly breathing pulls the diaphragm down, pushes the belly out—inflates the bellows. The diaphragm is pretty high in dead people too. It is a bit too high in any one who has what we doctors call poor muscle tone or resiliency. It is likely to be high in persons who have the wrong idea about good posture, the chesty complex, the bad habit of trying to pull in or hold in the "abdomen," as Mrs. Malaprop calls the belly.

I attempt to explain how the diaphragm works in booklet No. 29 in "Little Lessons in the Ways of Health" series which is entitled "The Art of Easy Breathing," but darn it all, it costs ten cents. Visit the public library some day and read a few chapters in Howell's Text Book of Physiology, which is available in every public library worthy of the name, and perhaps you will get some inkling of the function of the breathing muscle. Other muscles help the diaphragm, of course, but they are of minor importance.

How the diaphragm works, then, has much to do with vital capacity, physical efficiency and longevity.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Vitamin D and Metabolism
 Can you tell me whether vitamin D has any effect on the thyroid gland? Should one whose metabolism is low (20 per cent below normal, the doctor said when the test was made) take vitamin D at all? (A. E. A.)

Answer—Vitamin D increases the metabolic rate. Any one who needs iodine to speed up the metabolism, any one who is hypothyroid, probably also needs vitamin D.

Silver Nitrate

Is silver nitrate injurious to use as a mouthwash? (F. L.)

Answer—Pure silver nitrate is commonly called lunar caustic. It would be unwise to use anything stronger than a one-half of one per cent solution in the mouth—more than once.

Carrot Juice

Please tell me how one can make raw carrot juice, there being so little juice in carrots. (Mrs. C. L. Y.)

Answer—I have often wondered about that myself. In fact, I had a dreadful dream about it—a big bottle handed me a mortar and pestle and took me by the ear to a vast bin of carrots, about a ton of them, and said you squeeze out a wineglassful of juice for me by breakfast time or else! Why go to all that trouble? Why not just eat the carrots?

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"

If April 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m. from 4 to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

Every move, motive and operation this day, requires serious consideration, before being utilized. Calculate what results will be achieved by any drastic action, or departure from the common practice, of dance or pitch of voice or force of tone or control, for their effect may be far-reaching upon nerves, bringing about good or bad reactions. It will pay to respect the opinion of other people, even if it differs from your own. Fixed ideas may be wrong ones, and it will be a great mistake to be a stickler for them simply through a desire to be obstinate, or determined to have your own way. Your personal attitude will have an important bearing on the amount of pleasure you will derive from your social contacts this day. Married and engaged couples, and those whose heart of hearts are progressing satisfactorily, will find that common practice, or prejudice to make them pre-disposed to be biased regarding anything, is a mistake that might lead to a painful situation.

If a woman and April 30 is your birthday, your mood varies greatly. You are either up in the clouds, or down in the depths. Do not let people or little things affect you so easily. It is most important that you school yourself to take things calmly and deliberate upon them rationally. Ungovernable impulses are the things that will be the cause of most of your troubles. You have, fortunately, a vast amount of will power, which can be successfully drawn upon in developing a high degree of self-control. The chances are wealth in lands, monies or friends with the possibility of all three being combined, may be the medium through which happiness will brighten your life. Cupid probably will prove to be a most satisfactory matrimonial agent.

The child born on April 30, is usually predestined to be very successful in all of its undertakings. It ought to, by the time it reaches its majority, be launched upon a career that will bring it both prosperity and fame.

If a man and April 30 is your natal day, you are, perhaps, more or less of an idealist, although thoroughly practical in business affairs. You most likely will see your cherished hopes realized. Among the best activities for you to engage in are: law, engineering, architecture, contracting, politics, journalism, chemistry or geology.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — There may have been reason once for those famed four irreconcilable, conservative justices refusing to retire, but there isn't any more.

When they had Justice Roberts with them they could feel that they were standing like Horatius at the bridge against President Roosevelt and his economic and social predilections. But Roberts now has sided with the invading savages from the north and the bridge head is already taken. Rome, as far as Justice McReynolds and his three associates are concerned, has fallen.

Retirement?

In Washington there are rumors that Justices McReynolds, Sutherland and Van DeVanter will retire at the end of the present term which will be the last Monday of May or the first Monday of June. They will, Justice Butler, are now the minority instead of the majority, since it is unlikely Justice Roberts will hover back their way. Moreover, even if they consider themselves as voices crying in the wilderness, the country has heard their cry repeatedly without paying more than impudent attention to it. They have suffered a fate worse than death, by being rendered futile.

A bill has been passed under which they can retire without danger of loss of pay and it is a fair guess that before long they will seek its sanctuary.

McReynolds reportedly has tired of the fight, which anyone will admit has been long and hard. Sutherland's health has been poorly in recent years and summers have found him spending weeks at German spas.

Van DeVanter's friends have hinted he would like to spend more time with members of his family.

Hold-Out

As to Butler, it is understood he would prefer to continue the fight even if the court is loaded to the guard rails with liberal souls and retirement pay means nothing to him since he has ample of the world's gold.

And another thing: Undoubtedly the shuffle over the president's court bill will continue long after the first Monday in June unless something extraordinary happens. And while the elderly justices may be powerless where they are, by resigning they could deliver a final knockout to the court enlargement plan. It would be like putting poison in your executioner's soup, but even that would provide some satisfaction.

Waupaca—St. Agnes Guild and St. Mark's Episcopal church sponsored a benefit bridge party at the rectory Tuesday afternoon. Nine tables were in play and honors were awarded Miss Cora Turner of Amesbury, Mrs. Berta of Amesbury, Mrs. Charles Hoffmann and Mrs. Wendall McHenry.

Refreshments were served by the following committee: Mesdames Claude Penny, Tom Browne, Ralph Hoffmann and Miss Roberta Holly of St. Agnes Guild, and Mesdames Paul Ovrom, F. W. Czeskleba and Frank Houseman of St. Mark's Guild.

Mrs. Sam Salan was hostess to members of the Study club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. H. Baehner was in charge of the lesson, which was a review of the winter's study, and a review of a round table discussion of "Alaska." This was the final study meeting of the season.

Judge A. M. Scheller was the guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Lions clubs and their ladies, in Marshfield Tuesday evening. The Lions Club is sponsor of an ordinance in that city that demands that traffic respect the red and white canes whenever used, as they are a mark of identification of a blind person. Lawyers Score Bill Increasing Notary Powers

30 Members of Legislature Talk Against Proposed Measure

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau—Madison—Seldom do the 30 or more members of the bar in the legislature's lower house agree on any of the questions submitted to them.

One of those rare bills on which legal opinion in the assembly was as one was debated Tuesday morning. Democratic Republican, Progressive and Farmer-Labor-Progressive attorneys joined forces for half an hour to denounce and defeat a bill which would increase the power of notaries public, and consequently reduce the prerogatives of the legal profession.

The bill was offered by a group of northern farmer members, including Paul Fuhrman of Shawano county, who argued that their bill, which would empower notaries to draft deeds, mortgages and similar instruments and to collect suitable fees for their work, would aid the citizens of the northern part of the state, where lawyers are few and far between. One of the proponents of the bill, Theodore Swanson, Pierce county farmer, declared that in his district farmers have to travel 20 miles to find a lawyer to draft their deeds and mortgages.

Lawyers in the house denounced the proposal as "the most dangerous yet introduced," as "palpably unfair," and a threat to the livelihood of struggling young attorneys who depend on the fees for this type of work.

Among those who opposed were Charles B. Perry, Wauwatosa attorney, venerable B. M. Vaughan, chairman of the house judiciary committee, and former Wisconsin Rapids judge, Francis T. Murphy, who argued that he is still trying to pay back his law school tuition debt, and that his Milwaukee practice consists largely of drawing up deeds and similar instruments, and Felix Kremer, Phillips, also a former judge.

Before the bill sent down to defeat, Murphy offered an amendment which would have added to the proposed new statute, "all notaries admitted to practice, shall be required to post a bond of $10,000." Debate on the question proceeded merrily until Speaker Paul Alfonsi moved the previous question to shut off further arguments. The roll call showed 62 to 22 in favor of killing the bill.

Accident Prevention Is Theme of Child Health Day

Madison—Child health day this year is very fittingly devoted to the prevention of accidents in childhood, declared the State Medical Society in its bulletin today.

"Accidents kill twice as many children as measles, scarlet fever, and diphtheria combined. The leading cause of accidents today is burns in the child's first three years of life while automobile accidents take the leading total in children beyond three years.

"Fatal burns are caused primarily by neglect of precautionary measures. Many children are fatally burned as a result of hot liquids in the kitchen, in the laundry, or in their play with matches. Burns caused by hot liquids can be prevented in a large measure by observing certain precautions. Leading in this list of precautions is the placement of hot liquids toward the back of the stove at the center of the table, and out of the reach of inquisitive little hands. Where liquids are placed toward the front of the stove small children reach up and spill the contents over their bodies. Hot liquids should never be placed on the floor where children can stumble into them. In children, burns involving even a small area, are many times fatal.

Severe Burns
"Matches placed within the reach of children are the cause of many deaths and many severe burns. Extreme caution should be observed in placing the match box well out of the reach of small children. The clothing of the child, ignited by the matches, burns rapidly and if fanned by the child in running will cause the burn to become very extensive. If the clothing of a child

Plan Exhibit for Child Health Week

Material for Displays Sent To Libraries Throughout State

Appleton will join the state board of health next week in presenting through library exhibits an assortment of helpful printed material on maternal and child health, as part of the nation's observance of Child Health week.

To more than 275 Wisconsin libraries the exhibit material has been submitted by the state board's bureau of maternal and child health, according to Dr. Amy Louise Hunter, bureau supervisor. In addition to pamphlets and special Child Health day leaflets, the exhibits include lists of books on maternal and child care, many of which are available either at the home library or through the state traveling library.

The purposes of the project include encouragement of year-round child health activities on a local basis, Dr. Hunter points out.

solution. It is not necessary to determine exactly the proportion of soda and water but a good rule is a package to a tub or a cupful to a gallon of water.

"Other accidents causing many child deaths are falls down open stairways, out of second story windows, loose rugs on slippery floors, small objects swallowed by the child such as open safety pins, nails, coins and other pieces of hardware. "Childhood life can be made safer by observing these precautions. Place hot liquids at the back of the stove and in the center of the table; place gates at the top and bottom of each stairway; eliminate loose rugs in the house or fasten them to the floor; keep small objects out of reach of the child and place barriers on the nursery window to prevent the child from tumbling out."

Wants Legalized Betting At New York Race Tracks

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The tax-exempt slotmen of the New York legislature are still fumbling in the citizens' clothes for $20,000,000 with which to balance the million-dollar-a-day state budget. But up to this writing they have not found it advisable to interfere with the book-making industry which is a politico-sporting racket linking the government to the underworld of crime.

The book-making racket is a political concession to a few professional gamblers with strong political connections, and it handles upward of 300 million dollars a year, of which the gamblers retain at least 45 million for expenses and profit. The expenses are not to be estimated without access to the most intimate account books of the gamblers, but it is reasonable to assume that they are largely political expenses, because no group can expect to obtain an exclusive state concession in a $300,000,000 yearly business just for love.

The gambling concession belongs to the state itself, and if the pari-mutual machines were adopted, it probably would yield more than enough to cover the $20,000,000 deficit.

The case is local to New York, but the calm, defiant nerve of the state legislature in frisking the citizens for more money, while forbearing to disturb the gamblers is more or less typical of state legislatures.

While public attention is concentrated on Washington and national affairs they meet in a comparative stealth, and the citizens do not know what has been done to them until the tax bills are due. However, the protection of the gambling racket by the New York legislature is a little more raw than most such jobs, because it is maintained at a time when the slotmen are pretending to be very sorry, indeed, about the necessity to lift $20,000,000 off the people.

21 States Have Legal Track Betting Stations
There are now 23 states which have legal racing and 21 of them have legalized mutuels, while New York is the only one that forbids the mutuels by law. Most states take a percentage of every dollar wagered through the machines, and many of them also collect the breakage or nickel-and-penny money.

In Maryland the mutuel tax is only 1 per cent, but the tracks pay a license fee of $5,000 a day, and there is a further yield from a net revenue tax. Ohio, with a comparatively small gambling industry, collects from 10 per cent to 30 per cent of the money wagered through the machines, raising the percentage as the volume of business rises. Rhode Island, with a 3 per cent mutuel tax, collected $1,193,000 last year, and Florida, during the season just closed, derived about the same torious racket operated by the same types and many of the same individuals who operate the slot machines in various parts of the country.

Unlike the horse-tracks of the state, however, the dog-tracks will be permitted to operate a racket known as the phoney mutuels, but without either supervision or tax. This means that the operators of the phoney mutuels will be permitted to pay any odds they care to, and that means a license from the legislature for groups of well-known criminals to rob the people.

The state legislature doesn't explain its conduct in these matters. It does not have to explain yet, because nobody was paying much attention to the legislature what with the supreme court disturbance, the sidown strikes and one thing and another.

But it was only within the last week that the public began to hear about the tax potentialities of the legalized rackets of the horse and dog tracks, and the victims doubtless will have something to say to the slotmen when they realize that the $20,000,000 deficit could have been met by withdrawing the racket's exclusive gambling concession.

which is actually the property of the taxpayers.

Incidentally, the same legislature has also neglected to pass a law recommended by the governor to apply the state income tax to his own salaries and several hundred other tax-exempt public salaries ranging between $18,000 and $28,000 a year.

There have been many raw legislatures, but this one is out for the championship.

Large appropriations have been made for government construction in Iraq.

Opponent's Lucky to Make Contract in This Hand

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Dear Mr. Culbertson: The enclosed hand is, I think, good enough to send along to you. It was played in a three table duplicate game and a terrific controversy arose as to how it should be bid. I will give you three sets of bidding and ask you to comment on all three and to determine which, if any, of the bidding series was correct.

"This was the hand West dealt. Both sides vulnerable."

NORTH
♠ 7 5	♥ 10 7 3	♦ 10 9 6 3	♣ 10 9 6 3
WEST
♠ 10 9 6 3	♥ 7 5	♦ 10 9 6 3	♣ 10 9 6 3
EAST
♠ 10 9 6 3	♥ 7 5	♦ 10 9 6 3	♣ 10 9 6 3
SOUTH
♠ 10 9 6 3	♥ 7 5	♦ 10 9 6 3	♣ 10 9 6 3

The bidding at table 1:
West North East South
1st trump Pass Pass Pass
2nd Pass Pass Pass Pass
3rd Pass Pass Pass Pass
4th Pass Pass Pass Pass

The bidding at table 2:
West North East South
1st trump Pass Pass Pass Pass
2nd Pass Pass Pass Pass
3rd Pass Pass Pass Pass
4th Pass Pass Pass Pass

The bidding at table 3:
West North East South
1st trump Pass Pass Pass Pass
2nd Pass Pass Pass Pass
3rd Pass Pass Pass Pass
4th Pass Pass Pass Pass

"At table 1 the king of clubs was opened and the three heart contract went down one trick.

"At table 2, North opened the nine of spades against the three no trump contract (South not having bid hearts) and game was easily made.

"At table 3, South having bid hearts and North having led the suit, West, the declarer, went down two tricks doubled.

"There has been considerable betting done as to which bidding was correct.

"Yours very truly,
"R. K. Culbertson, Mich.

First, I disapprove of the one no trump used by all three West players as the opening bid. One diamond was the correct opening. Aside from that I think that South, at table 2, deserves the palm for his failure to enter the bidding. Despite South's strong hand, strategy demands trapping rather than aggressive measures. It takes little vision on South's part to know that North must hold a "blank," and even three hearts, for all South can tell, might be severely penalized.

South having bid three hearts at tables 1 and 3, I approve West's double at table 1 rather than the three no trump over East's non-committal two spade response, and this comment applies equally to West's rebid at table 2.

The fact that the South player, to whom I awarded the lowest score on the hand does not, in my opinion, affect the issue. His opponents were extremely lucky to make their contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: What is a reverse bid?
Answer: The bid of a higher ranking suit after bidding a lower ranking suit. It usually is a strong bid because it forces a partner to a higher level to express a choice for partner's first bid suit.

TOMORROW'S HAND
South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Jo-Jotte Pointer
When the bidding has ended and each player has been dealt three additional cards (bringing his total to nine cards), defender should consider bidding nulls. Null is a bid to win not a single trick at no trump. Unless declarer wishes to bid a slam he must pass and then he becomes the defender and makes the first lead.

A successful null bid is valuable, for it carries a bonus of 200 points and prevents the original declarer from scoring a part score (or a game). But beware of bidding nulls without a lot of sevens and a few eights, with which you can be sure of ducking to avoid winning tricks. If you win a trick, your opponent receives a bonus of 200 points, and if you win any other tricks he gets 100 points for each of them.

Children of Times Gone By

IV—FACTORIES, MINES AND CHILD LABOR
As we have seen, the common thing in times gone by was to make children work. Little boys and girls toiled on farms and in home workshops. Most of them had little time for play, and no time for school.

That was true during the Middle Ages in Europe, and it remained true until about the year 1800. Then there started a century in which many more children went to school than ever had gone before.

English children working in coal mine.

The new century, however, did not bring an end to child labor. More children were sent to school, but millions were placed in factories, mills and mines. When James Watt improved the steam engine, he performed an act which in some ways was a blessing to mankind. The new engine supplied power to turn the wheels of factories, and cut down the cost of certain things, but the owners were greedy. They wanted to run their plants with cheap labor, so they hired great numbers of children.

We should not blame those early factory owners too much. The simple fact is that they did not know better. It had been the custom for children to work on farms and at home, so it seemed natural for the little ones to be taken into the power mills. The owners did not know all the sickness, danger and sadness which would come to children who worked in gloomy, crowded factories.

From dawn to sunset, or even longer, the children toiled. Some were little boys and girls only six or seven years of age. Others were from eight to 12 years old. In certain cases, their work-day was 14 hours long, but half-hour periods were allowed for meals. During the half hour, the children were expected to clean the machines, as well as to eat the little food they were given.

This wrongful treatment led the British parliament to pass a law saying children must not work in cotton or woolen mills if they were less than nine years old. Boys and girls between nine and 12 could not be made to work more than nine hours a day. A 12-hour day was made the limit for young workers between the ages of 13 and 16.

That law did not cover children in mines. Girls and boys were being sent into coal pits, to labor from 10 to 14 hours a day. They carried heavy loads of coal out of the mines. They had to crawl through long, narrow passages to reach the places where men were using picks to break the coal into lumps.

When the facts about child labor were told to the British public, an end was made to the work of girls in coal mines. The law passed in 1842, limited the work of boys, saying that boys as young as 10 years could not work in a mine more than three days a week. Later laws passed in Great Britain were made to end all full-time labor of children under 14 years of age.

Teacher Should Analyze Failing Child's Trouble
BY ANGELO PATRI
"Dear Mrs. Corry, I am sorry to have to report that Herbert is doing no better in arithmetic. Unless he improves greatly this next month he will not be promoted. He needs to learn his tables better, and to pay more attention in class."

"Sincerely yours,
"Marnetta Martinette"

"Are you ashamed of yourself? After all the talking I save you last month! How'll you feel when you are left back and everybody else is promoted? Tell me that. How'll you feel when Orrie Beeswax gets ahead of you? Just because you don't pay attention."

"The whole trouble is you're not thinking. Your mind is on something else but your arithmetic. All you care about is your Scouts. Well, until you bring me a note from the school, saying that your work is up to grade, you go to no more Scout meetings."

"O. mom, I have to go to Scout meetings. I'm an officer. I'm—"

"Yes, you're everything but what you ought to be—a good scholar in school. Don't say another word about it. I've made up my mind and you might just as well make up yours. No arithmetic, no Scouts."

"Then I'll never go to Scouts! I can't do that old stuff."

"You could if you put your mind to it."

Herbert does not want to be poor in arithmetic any more than his mother wants him to be. He would be very glad to bring home a report of a hundred per cent. There is some reason for his failure. Until that reason is found and removed, he will not improve in arithmetic. Keeping him home from Scout

Beware of Extremes in New Styles

BY ELSIE PIERCE
THE other day, I mentioned that the cinema center is very definitely dictating and influencing American fashions.

I've just had a flash from one of the leading cinema stylists giving some sound advice that should be of assistance to every woman. If you have not quite finished assembling your spring wardrobe these hints may be timely. If you have this season's clothes, remember them for the next time.

"Every season brings certain bizarre styles," says this famous designer. "But the only women who should even notice such styles are those who can do it with luxurious furs, costly fabrics and a goodly supply of enormous jewels. Then, when they've followed this elaborate trend, they must have expensive cars to loll back in and servants to wait upon them. Such styles are made for them... and only for them. "And"—he adds—"this class of women is the smallest group in the world."

"The real fashions are those which the average American working girl can adopt. And if girls would realize this and stay within their price range, they'd always be appropriately dressed, according to their station in life."

Style Experts Study For You
"Women ought to realize that shops everywhere employ style experts who study things out for them... buyers with adequate backgrounds do the real worrying for the average woman today."

In closing, this famous designer explained that screen clothes do and should influence women regarding their own styles. But, bear in mind the role that is played. If one of our famous flickers is playing the part of a wealthy girl on a rollicking vacation at the St. Moritz, it obviously is not for the average young thing to attempt to copy those fashions. Keep your own station in mind when you start borrowing ideas from screen wardrobes. Then you'll be entirely safe and the cinema fashions will have done their bit by you."

Know Your Lines
I'd like to add my own notes to this famous designer's hints. The most important point is: know your lines. If you are adopting anyone's fashions, be sure those fashions are for you. If the character you are copying from happens to be slim and svelte and your proportions are much more generous, watch your lines. Remember the simple optical illusions—up and down to make you look slimmer—across to make you look rounder.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. I. Farrington
Nasturtiums are among the easiest of all annuals to grow. What has become almost a cult was created when the double Golden Gleam was developed a few years ago. Most of the catalogues are now offering a long list of new nasturtium varieties. Many new colors and variations in growth make them adaptable to any number of garden plans. Among this year's introductions, Apricot is outstanding. It is a soft apricot shade which is very pleasing both in the garden and in the house. Other new varieties which have merit are Scarlet Emperor, Harmony, Mahogany Gem and Primrose Gem.

is an authority. In camp, he excels. Only in school, facing an arithmetic lesson, is he a failure. Depriving him of the one field wherein he succeeds is about the worst possible way to help him to mend the failure. He has to have the feeling of success somewhere within him or he must fail completely.

Herbert's mother meant to help him, not hurt him, but she did not know how to go about it. She is not a teacher. The trained teacher ought to be able to analyze the failing child's difficulty and to set about remedying it. If the condition is beyond her she should be able to call on the experts for help. A note that merely tells of a school deficiency without asking for specific measures to remedy it, is always useless and often harmful.

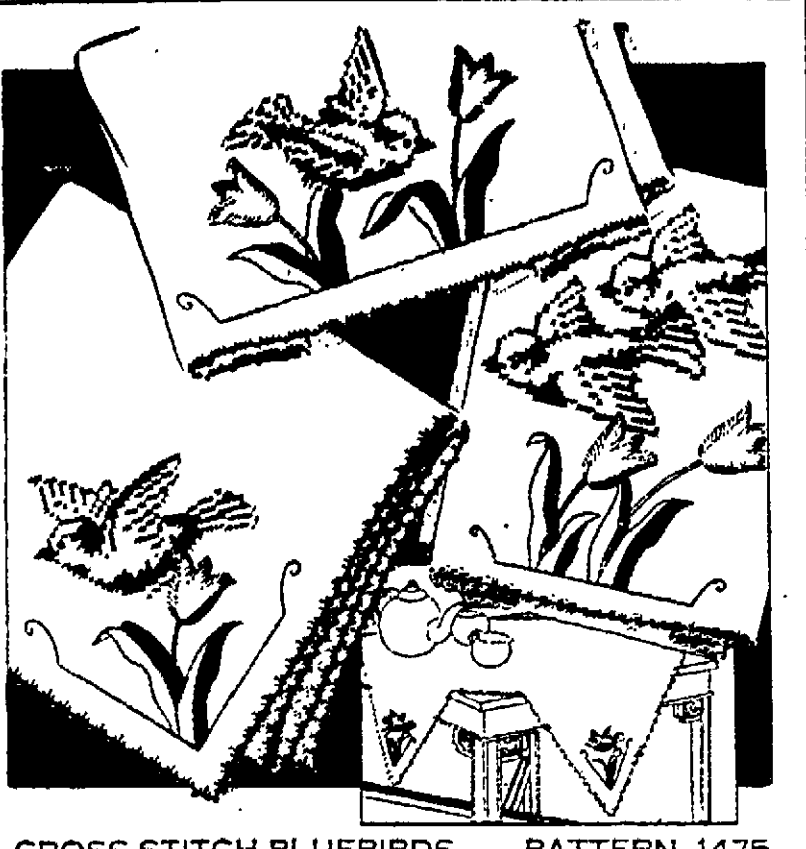

Depriving a child of the one joy of his life, whether it be taking his dog for a walk, studying music, scouting, dancing, collecting, is the worst way to mend a difficulty. Study the problem, and allow the child to do the one thing in which he finds success. It is the success that makes him happy, gives him added power. Happy children learn faster than unhappy ones, and remember what they learn longer.

Scout meeting is the only place where Herbert shines. He is up on all matters pertaining to outdoors. He can make a fire in the rain out of damp bark and twigs; he can cook a good meal over and in the fire; he can organize a party and manage it on the road. His advice on bait, packs, camping sites, essentials for a week-end outing, is sought and followed. In Scouting he

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the above and development of the child. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

Living Beyond Means Is Bound to End in Misery

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—I am a traveling man with a wife and two children. My salary is $3000 a year with an expense allowance, which brings our income about $3000, which seems to be ample for a small family to live on and save something, especially as I am seldom at home. Nevertheless, last year our expenses ran $350 more than our income. My pay check goes direct to my wife and she has the handling of all the money. Three or four times each year I have tried to get her to adopt a budget and stick to it, but her response is always the same—a rebellious cry that we cannot possibly live on any less than we are doing. To me the way we are living spells nothing but ruin, and so I am thinking of giving her an allowance of $200 a month to run the house on, keeping $50 each month for myself to pay off our debts—we owe about $500 and to buy my own clothes. Is my suggestion unreasonable?

A HARRASSED HUSBAND.

Answer:
Perfectly reasonable and it will set you out of the red, domestically as well as financially, if you have the courage to stick to it. A family of four can live in comfort and even luxury on $200 a month.

To spend more than you make, to live beyond your means and go in debt for things that you cannot afford is bound to end in misery for all concerned. You are only being kind to your wife when you curb her extravagance. For there is bound to be a payday, and when she finds herself engulfed in utter ruin she will wonder why you did not have sense enough and firmness enough of character to save her from her folly.

There are a lot of women, like your wife, who have no sense about handling money. When they say they've got to have a new dress, or they've got to give a party, or the children have got to go to dancing school, they seem to think that settles the matter and they go on and do it regardless of whether or not they can afford it.

They run up bills they know they have no way of paying and do not apparently appreciate that that is as much stealing from the merchant as if they had purloined the goods from the counter. What they want they must have, no matter if it works their husbands to death to try to get it for them; no matter how much it jeopardizes their future and their children's.

No problem that a man can face is more difficult to solve than that of dealing with a spendthrift wife, because she always makes his life a hell on earth with her tears and reproaches and tantrums, but a worse hell awaits him if he does not stop her extravagance and let's her bankrupt him.

I think a man is foolish and weak if he lets his wife spend all that he makes and who, after earning a good salary for years, has nothing to show for it but piles of bills and who has nothing to look forward to in old age but the Poor House or dependence on his children.

Don't be one of these unfortunate. Your wife has shown that she does not know how to handle money. Collect your salary yourself. Stop her charge accounts everywhere and force her to live on the allowance that you are able to give her. She will thank you for it later on and so will your children. You are doing your family no kindness by helping them along the road to ruin.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have done something wrong. I don't know why I did it. Just on the impulse of the moment. And I shall spend my life repenting it. I have the dearest mother in the world. So understanding. I have always told her everything, but not this, yet I think she senses it, though she never says

Yes, tell her. She will understand and forgive and help you find yourself. Remember what the Bible says, "as one whom a mother comforteth." There is no other such healing in the world. DOROTHY DIX.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A B C'S IN MANNERS

1—Christmas time mother let me turn my bedroom into a study. I now have a studio couch instead of a bed, bookcases, a desk and several little tables. In no way does the room resemble a bedroom because I even had my dressing table stood in a large closet off the room. Do you think this room is a suitable place for me to entertain my friends—boys as well as girls?

Answer: Yes, entirely so. In many smaller houses and apartments a grown daughter (or aunt or perhaps grandmother) furnishes her room as you have done and gives it the character and propriety of a sitting room.

2—We are a group of ten girls, all high school classmates, with another year before we graduate. We've been getting together and talking about what we could all do together next summer during the several weeks' vacation each one of our families lets us have. And it is unanimous that it would be grand to take a small cottage at a seashore resort about fifty miles from our homes. Do you think it will be necessary for us to invite an older woman to go as chaperon in order to make things look right? We would rather not, of course.

Answer: Contradictory as it might seem to you, you would be much freer if you have an older person with you. In other words, if you were to go somewhere alone you would be able to do absolutely nothing except go bathing and walk around in the daytime—quietly. You couldn't go anywhere in the evening and you certainly could not go about with boys nor make them welcome in your house. On the other hand, if you have a chaperon you are free to do exactly what you do at home.

3—When I take my young school friends home with me I introduce them as Mary Brown, Louise Green and Tom Black. In other words, I never use titles when introducing them to mother or anyone in my family. But whenever any of mother's friends happen to come in while my friends are there, mother always introduces them as Miss Brown, Miss Green and Mr. Black. We're all in the first and second year high school and I think mother is being unnecessarily formal don't you?

Answer: If she doesn't know them very well, your mother's impulse of formality would be very natural. Moreover, she actually adds to their dignity by introducing them as she does.

4—When I pass a man teacher on the street it is up to me, as well as to the other girls, to greet him first just as we would be expected to do if we met boys of our own age?

Answer: Yes. Teachers can't remember pupils as well as pupils can remember teachers. And remember that older people are always pleased to be greeted by younger people.

'Daring' Style Innovations in 1911 Coronation Will be Superseded in This Year's Crowning

OSTRICH FEATHERS TRIM EVENING HAT
Not all the ostrich feathers sent to England this season will be used in the traditional court headdress. Madelon Chaumet uses several, tinted water-lily pink, in this becoming evening hat which has a foundation of black net.

BY MILLIE HUDSON

London—(AP)—Present coronation dress styles, with the exception of a few revivals, differ widely from those which prevailed in 1911 when King George V was crowned.

For in 1911 there was a daring note in styles. Tight corsets had been discarded and "big" waists were in vogue. Necklines had been cut down a little and sleeves shortened to the elbow.

Queen Mary apparently was not in favor of the new styles. A style specialist in 1911 wrote: "I hear that Queen Mary dislikes both low-cut necks and elbow-sleeves for the daytime, and has desired her maids-of-honor not to abandon a collar or lace round the throat and cuffs near wrist. For a pretty, full throat, however, the low-cut style is undoubtedly becoming, and Paris has so definitely declared in favor of no collar that it will almost surely be the fashion."

The same writer, heralding the sporty fashions of 1911, wrote: "The empire high waistline has conquered all opposition and is revived in full fashion. . . . Big waists are quite the vogue; to pinch in the figure anywhere above the hips, and thus make them prominent, is to be quite out of date. Straight as possible is to be the outline of the whole costume."

History repeats itself. History is now repeating itself, for the huge empire waistline is back again. Skirts however do not hang straight from bust to hem as they once did.

The modern empire has allied itself to the princess style. The bodice still extends a little below the bust, and the waistline is often carried up higher in front than at the back as it was in 1911. But the skirt below is more or less fitted to the figure, particularly about the natural waist and hips.

History also repeats itself in the tunic style, a popular vogue of the moment. Nearly all the gowns worn at the last coronation were made in one piece. At the same time a tunic effect was given in many cases by trimming or by a band of another material carried round below the knees. As a rule the dress was a one-piece foundation and had draperies or decorations to give a high-waisted tunic effect. The straight line of this silhouette was considered "extra graceful."

Straight Lines Good Then
The tunic dresses and suits in fashion this spring usually have a slight flare which modifies the straight line of the skirt below. And they are generally shorter.

The pencil-straight outline was also followed in coats and skirts, as well as in gowns, during the last coronation. One of the most chic of the coats being described as "quite short." They came eight or ten inches below the waist and were cut so that they hung from the bust, almost shapeless and quite loose. In contrast, the costumes of today, though still compared with the chapeaux of today much similarity is noted. Among the reminders are ostrich feathers and roses, which are used generously in decorations.

To say that the hats our mothers wore were large is putting it mildly. They were terrific—in brim, in crown and in trimming effects. But so are some of the hats today.

Marion Relief Corps Meets at Welch Home

ed first, Mrs. Ed Braun, second, and Mrs. John Moericke, third, Miss Verona Lau was chairman of the committee in charge of the social.

New London will be host to approximately 1,500 bandmen and vocalists on Saturday, May 1. There will be about twenty contestants from Marion in the various classes of instrumental and vocal solos as well as several ensembles, duets, etc. In the evening there will be a concert by a mass band of about 100 selected musicians.

Weyauwega Scouts to Go to National Confab

Weyauwega—Jack Nienhaus and Ross Bauer, Boy Scouts of Troop 21, Weyauwega, have registered for the national scout jamboree in Washington, D. C. in June. They expect to go from Oshkosh to Chicago; to Niagara Falls for one day, to New York for two days, and then to Washington for eight days; and back to Chicago and Oshkosh.

Troop 21, under direction of Scoutmaster William Nienhaus and Ronald Murray, assistant, is collecting and selling papers, magazines and tags, raising money and cleaning up the town.

to spend a week or two at Twin Lakes.

Plans are being made for a trip, down the Crystal starting at Dr. Miller's cottage, as soon as nights are warm enough. Scouts of lower than first class rank must pass four tests or advance one rank, in order to go on a river trip.

A "fish way" at the dam will be a topic for discussion at the next meeting. If fish were permitted to go into the mill pond, especially the black bass the pond and river would soon be stocked up.

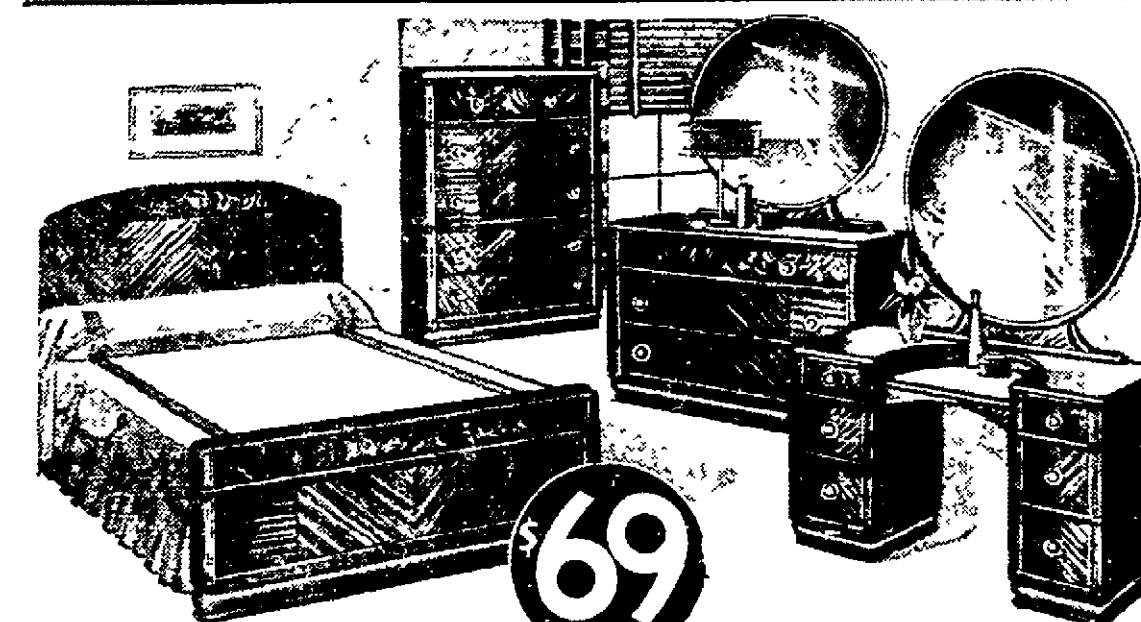

BIRTHDAY PARTY
Deer Creek—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Spruce, Jr., entertained Sunday evening at their home in honor of the former. Three tables of schafkopf were in play. Honors went to Mrs. Clarence Luecke and Eugene Spruce.

2 Re-elected as Church Trustees

Evangelical Congregation At Seymour Has Annual Meeting

Seymour—Robert Gosse and Winfred Schmidt were re-elected trustees for a three-year term at the annual meeting of the Evangelical church held Tuesday evening at the church. A pot-luck dinner was served at 7 o'clock after which the business meeting followed conducted by the Rev. H. A. Bernhardt. Financial reports were given and arrangements were made to paint the exterior of the church.

A joint meeting of the American Legion and its auxiliary was held Monday evening with 30 members present. The question for discussion was whether to repair the present building or make plans to build a new clubhouse. A committee was appointed to make further investigation on the matter. Plans were discussed for the observance of Memorial day and a committee was chosen to complete plans. A lunch was served at the close of the meeting and a joint meeting will be held on Monday evening, May 10.

The American Legion auxiliary will hold its regular meeting Monday evening, May 3, with a Mothers' day program. Every member is expected to bring a mother or prospective member as her guest.

A Mother and Daughter banquet will be held at the Evangelical church Thursday evening, May 6, beginning at 7 o'clock. Mrs. John Denyes of Appleton will be the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roethig announce the birth of a son Saturday, April 24.

We Got Quintuplets in the Wilken Family!

William and Tom—they got a notion you mightn't care to hear about the 5 new members that came into the Wilken Family a few days ago. Well I wouldn't doubt but what there's considerable to what they say—only I thought these pups was so extra cute, maybe you'd like to see them, and besides—it might be sort of nice to celebrate on account of our dog Jessie.

And if you're a mind to celebrate, you couldn't find a tastier nor a milder whiskey than this personal whiskey of The Wilken Family that's made according to our own family's recipe. It's the identical thing as is enjoyed by us that have spent our life in the whiskey making business.

300 Persons at Safety Meeting At Hortonville

Appleton Officer Speaks On 'The Automobile And the Driver'

Hortonville — About 300 persons attended the meeting of the Outagamie County Safety Council Wednesday evening in the Community hall. The meeting was called to order by the president of the council, Frank Appleton, Outagamie county highway commissioner.

Traffic Sergeant Carl Radke of Appleton gave a talk on "The Automobile and the Driver." He discussed the "hit and run" driver and "road hog," the inability to judge distance through physical defects, the neglect of dimming the lights.

Sergeant Radke spoke directly to the children present, warning them of the danger of careless bicycle riding on the highways and streets. He urged observance of all rules of the road whether riding a bicycle, driving a car or walking.

The speaker also pointed out several of the most common causes of accidents, passing cars on hills, making left turns without a warning signal and thumbing rides. He said that during January, February and March of this year 130 lives have been sacrificed in Wisconsin due to automobile accidents. For the same period last year 102 persons lost their lives in car accidents in Wisconsin.

These figures show plainly, he said, that the public must act at once to solve these problems and reduce the accident toll. Speed, Sergeant Radke said, is the greatest menace of all.

James F. Kavanaugh, superintendent of schools at Kaukauna, discussed the achievements of his twentieth century. The gas engine, he asserted, is the cause of the most dangerous period in the history of the country.

Mr. Kavanaugh stated that Wisconsin must remodel its drivers' license laws. He suggested laws patterned on the laws of the state of Massachusetts.

The next safety meeting will be held in Stevensville. The date has not been announced.

St. Martin Ladies Aid society will hold a sale of baked goods, aprons and other articles at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 1, at the church basement. Lunches will be served during the afternoon and early evening.

Cooperative Meeting Between 200 and 300 persons attended a special stockholders' meeting of the Clintonville Cooperative Oil company Tuesday evening at the armory. Joseph Gilbert of the Midland Cooperative Wholesale Co. at Minneapolis was the principal speaker, having for his subject, "Co-operation, its Purposes and Effects." Mr. Gilbert was accompanied here by Andrew Marske of Appleton, district fieldman of the Midland company.

The business portion of the meeting, which was conducted by Lottar Boyer, chairman of the board of directors, was devoted to the discussion of purchasing property for the Clintonville Co-op service station. The business has since its organization been located on the Wurl property on S. Main street, which is being considered for purchase. Several other Main street locations are also being considered, one of which is the Tillman property adjoining the Gansen drug store. Definite action on the matter has been deferred until July 1.

About 60 members of the Order of Eastern Star attended the initiation ceremonies at the Masonic temple Tuesday evening. Following the formalities a lunch was served by the Marion members including Mrs. James Emory Rogers, P. C. Rogers, J. H. Driessen, Louis Steff, Leslie Amorse, Roy Van Schaick, Kathryn Kloster, Lucille Schultz and Ruth Wulk.

The S. O. E. club will meet at two o'clock Friday afternoon, April 30, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Nims on N. Clinton avenue. Mrs. A. L. Merrill will be the assisting hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Russell were at Milwaukee Tuesday, where they attended the funeral of the sister-in-law, Mrs. Herbert Miller. Services took place at the Wisconsin Memorial Park chapel. The death

Dinner and supper will be served in the basement of the auditorium by the women's auxiliary of the Black Creek local.

Begin Investigation Of Railroad Request

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Investigation has been begun on applications by the Kewaunee, Green Bay and Western railroad and the Annopce and Western railroad for authority to abandon passenger service on their daily trains between Green Bay and Kewaunee, and Casco Junction and Sturgeon Bay, the public service commission has announced.

The commission said a hearing date and place would be set later.

Recently the railroads announced that they would stop giving passenger service on April 11, but the commission called their attention to the fact that the law requires a railroad to get permission from the commission before abandoning service and that such permission can be granted only after the public has had an opportunity to be heard.

Dealers are Warned to Inspect Lights on Cars

A warning that automobile dealers must have lights tested on all cars before they are delivered to customers was issued today by Captain Charles Steidl of the county motor police.

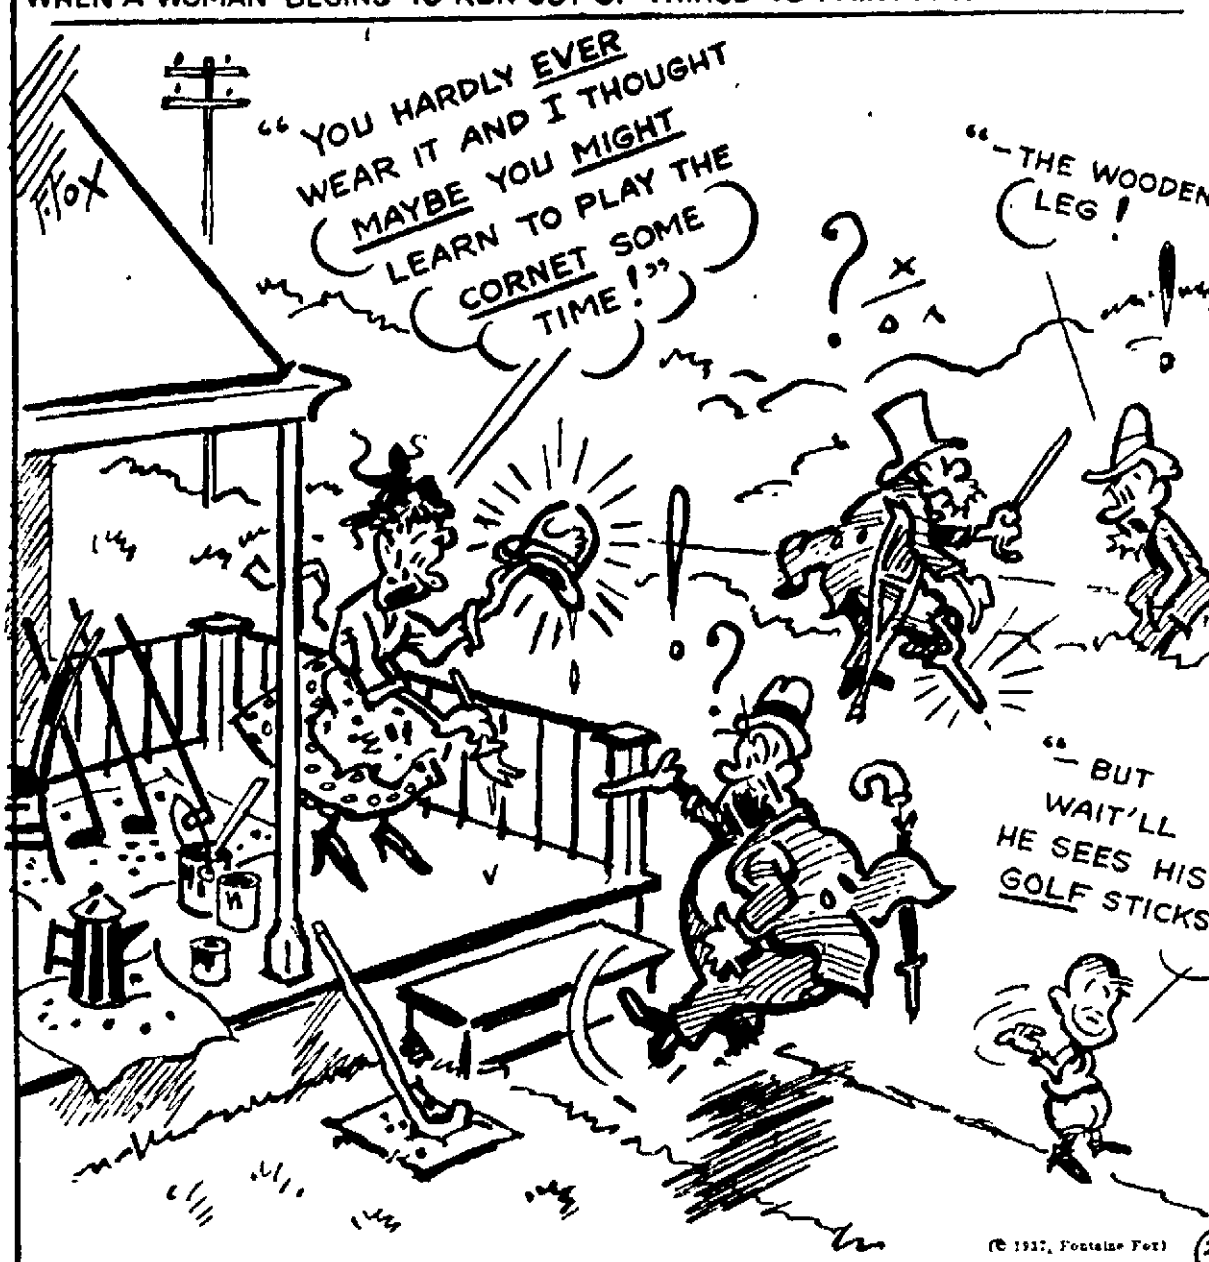

The state traffic code provides that "No persons, firm or corporation engaged in selling motor vehicles at retail, shall sell or deliver any motor vehicle in any county in which a certified light adjusting station is maintained unless the lighting equipment and adjustment or use thereof has been first tested at a certified adjusting station and a windshield sticker issued as provided in subsection (7) of this section. Such test shall be made within 30 days prior to delivery of such motor vehicle to the purchaser."

10 Persons Apply for Citizenship Papers

Ten applications for citizenship have been received so far for the semi-annual naturalization hearing in circuit court here June 5, according to Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts. Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner will preside.

Killoren Named Head Of School German Club

John Killoren was elected president of the Appleton High School German club at the regular meeting held by members this week. Other officers named include Sansee Courtney, vice president; Ivis Bayer, secretary; Robert Schroeder, treasurer.

Walter Schmidt is the retiring president with Dolores Jens, vice president; Betty Stulp, secretary; John Langenberg, treasurer. Cabinet members include Elizabeth Catlin, Lois Boon, John Killoren, Gerda Sawadke and Helen Dettman.

High School Principal Will Speak at College

H. H. Helble, principal of Appleton High school, will be the speaker at a Lawrence college student convocation at 10 o'clock Friday morning at Lawrence Memorial chapel. He will speak on Germany as he found it on a trip to that country last year. He was scheduled to speak to the college students recently but the program was postponed until this Friday.

C. of C. Legislative Committee Will Meet

Another of the series of weekly meetings of the legislative committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce will be held at 4:30 Friday afternoon at the chamber offices. The meetings were started soon after the state legislature went into session and they will continue until the session ends. Proposed bills are studied at the weekly meetings with reports on the various bills made by members.

Snow Removal for Winter Cost Less Than 1935 Season

Snow removal costs during the last winter amounted to $8,247.62, almost $3,000 less than that for the previous winter, according to records of the street department. The cost in 1935 was $11,065.62.

Of the total cost last winter $1,262.15 was for sanding streets and arterials. This was much higher than the amount spent for the same work the previous year because of the extended periods of mild and rainy weather. The cost the previous year was only $879.39.

Cost of shoveling walks, opening streets and hauling off accumulated snow last winter totaled $5,985.43 as compared to $10,186.23 for the winter of 1935.

Three-fifths of the cotton consumed in the United States goes into clothing and household articles. The other two-fifths goes into industry.

Committee Rejects New History Teaching Plan

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Hopes of Irishmen in the state senate to establish a chair in Irish and Gaelic history and literature at the University of Wisconsin seem destined for disappointment as the legislative joint finance committee turned in a report recommending defeat of a bill to appropriate $12,000 annually for that purpose.

Despite the arguments of eight senate members of Irish ancestry the committee refused to approve the measure. Only dissenter in the decision was Senator Ernest G. Sauld, Pembine Democrat.

Pupils Entered in Spring Music Fetes

Forest Junction—Pupils of McKinley school are taking part in the spring music festival of the Wisconsin School of the Air, to be held in Music hall at the state university at Madison on Saturday. Parents of the pupils are furnishing conveyance and a number of automobile loads will be leaving here at 6 o'clock Saturday morning. Miss Marjorie Walker, teacher, is planning to escort the pupils to various points of interest during the forenoon, with festival events occupying the time of the group after 10 o'clock. The festival broadcast is scheduled for 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Pupils from here will take part in the musical, rhythm band, and chorus.

Teachers from rural schools in this area, constituting County Music Group No. 3, met at McKinley school Tuesday afternoon conferring with Miss Faythe Fletcher, county supervising teacher, in regard to plans for the county commencement exercises to be held at Chilton at the close of the present school term. Seven teachers were present.

Two musical events in observance of National Music Week are scheduled by local organizations for next week. In a special program at 7:30 Sunday evening, the Christian Endeavor society at Zion Evangelical church is presenting the various types of religious songs composed during the twenty centuries of the Christian era. A similar program will be carried out by the Parent-Teacher association at McKinley school at its monthly meeting next Tuesday evening. The program will feature music in vogue at the present time, including secular as well as sacred.

Lawrence Tracksters Wallop Carroll, 83 to 49

Take 11 Firsts in
15 Events; Leete
Is High Point ManAppleton Youth Cops
Three First Places
And One Second

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
WAUKESHA—Coach Art Denney of Lawrence college got even with Carroll for many things here yesterday afternoon when his track squad walloped the Pioneers by an 83 to 49 score in a dual meet. It was the first of the season for the Vikings and the first time some of the Lawrence men had been over their distances against time.

There was only one thing to mark the proceedings as far as Denney was concerned; he'd have liked to have had a goodly crowd of Carroll students and Waukesha townspeople around to see what a good track squad looks like. As many as attend basketball games or football games, or such like.

The Lawrence thinly clad won 11 of 15 first places and in most instances the boys weren't pressed.

Leete Sets Record
Sam Leete, Appleton, finally broke the state college high jump record set by Orlebeke of Carroll in 1931. Leete jumped 6 feet, the record was 5 feet, 10 inches. Last year Leete didn't get up in the air until the Midwest meet and the state record eluded him.

Ed Fritz of Lawrence got off a powerful heave of 179 feet with the javelin and tied the record of Jim Rasmussen, Carroll, set in 1930. Junior Kapp, Appleton, tossing the discus, set a new Carroll field record when he heaved the platter 127 feet, 10 inches.

Sam Leete was the high point man for Lawrence with three first places and a second. He copped the high hurdles, the high and broad jumps and finished second in the low hurdles for 18 points. In the lows he was nosed out by Gimla, Carroll. It was the first time this season Leete had run 220 yards. Kapp won 10 points for the Vikings with firsts in the shot and discus. Carroll's showing was pretty much the showing of Gimla. He took second in the broad jump, first in the low hurdles and might have had a first in the 440-yard dash if he hadn't deliberately crossed in front of Vande Walle and almost ran him out of the park in the event.

Lawrence didn't do so well in the half, the mile and the two mile largely because of lack of practice over the distances and because Carroll happens to have several pretty good lads in the events.

Here's how the events went:
Graf Takes 100

100-yard dash—Joe Graf, Lawrence breezed into first place with yards to spare in 10.2 seconds. Clark of Carroll was second and McCabe of Carroll was given third although a picture of the finish would indicate that Beck of Lawrence should have had a third place. Van Nostrand was the other Lawrence runner.

220-yard dash—Lawrence scored a grand slam in the 220 with Vande Walle, Walle, Graf and Gerlach staging something of a battle for the places. The time was 23.2. Graf appeared to loaf during the race although a picture of the finish would indicate that Beck of Lawrence should have had a third place. Van Nostrand was the other Lawrence runner.

440-yard run—Vande Walle, Lawrence, was awarded first place and Gerlach second although Gimla, Carroll, crossed the tape first. Gimla held a slight edge most of the race and after the boys made the last turn Vande Walle started to pull up in an effort to cop. Gimla turned and left Vande Walle over his shoulder and then deliberately ran in front of him all the way to the tape despite the fact Vande crossed over to the other side of the track in an effort to get in front. Coach Art Denney of Lawrence protested and when Coach Lampe of Carroll asked Vince Batha former Carroll track coach, if he had seen the offense, and Vince said "yes", Gimla was disqualified.

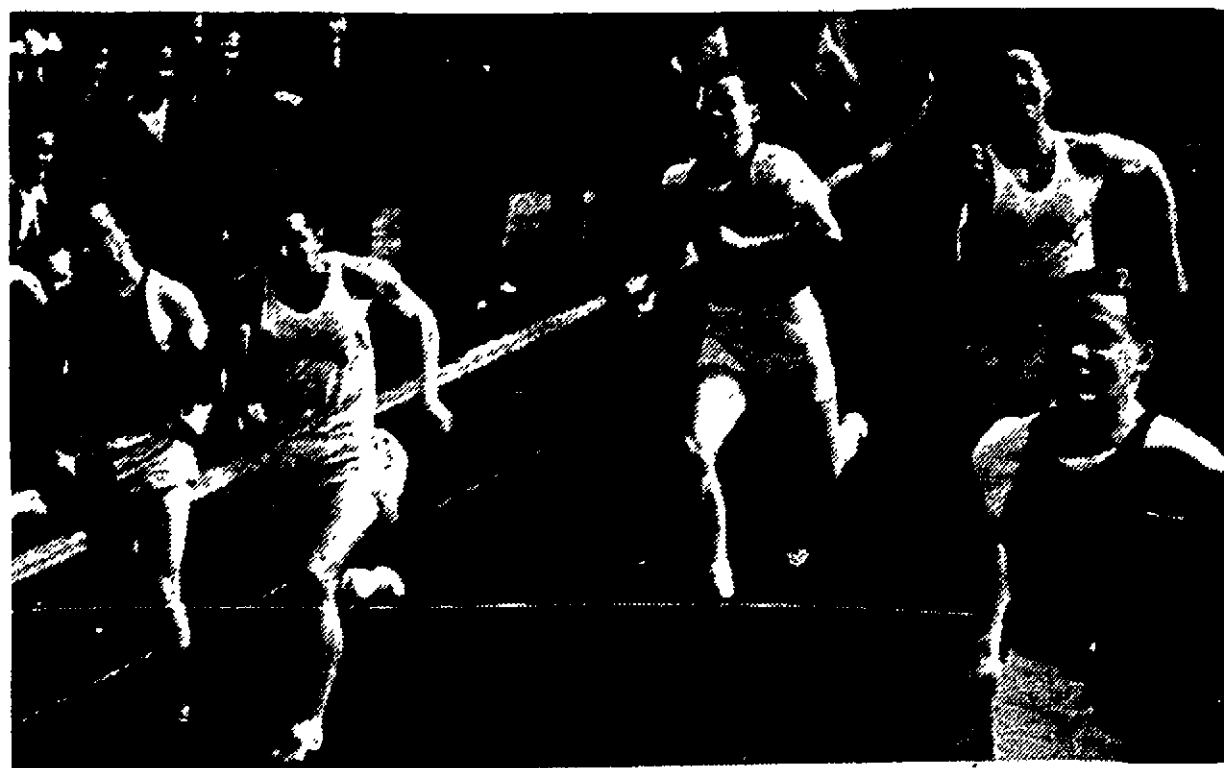

Half mile—Art Buck, Carroll, won the half with little trouble in 2 minutes and 8 seconds. "Tut" Grode, Lawrence was second and "Red" Hecker, Lawrence, trailed in third.

One mile run—Gebel, Carroll, won the mile run with a great sprint in the last 300 yards. Grode, Lawrence, was second while Schubert, Lawrence, was third. Schubert led until the final lap when he wilted right out of the picture. The time was 4 minutes, 33 seconds.

Fulton Looks Good
Two mile—Himke, Carroll's crack distance man, won the event in 11 minutes, 8 seconds. Fulton was the only Lawrence entrant and gave Himke a battle in the final 220 yards. The Mike youngster showed a nice sprint after the long run and if the weatherman gives him a chance to work he'll probably be a challenger in every meet. Heermans, Carroll, was third. Schubert of Lawrence wasn't entered in the race.

High hurdles—Sam Leete, Lawrence, won the high hurdles in 16 seconds flat with Buck, Carroll, second and Bergs, Carroll, third. Leete wasn't extended much. Walker was the other Lawrence entry in the event.

Low hurdles—Gimla, Carroll, nosed out Sam Leete, Lawrence, for first in the lows after Sam had led almost all the way. Lack of training over the 220-yard distance cost

THIS PICTURE MIGHT EMBARRASS CARROLL JUDGES

Here's the finish of the 100-yard dash in the Lawrence-Carroll dual track meet at Waukesha yesterday afternoon and it might embarrass the judges if shown to them. They picked Joe Graf, Lawrence, lower right, for first place which was all right. And they picked Clark, Carroll, left center, for second which also was all right but they named McCabe, Carroll, running on the right, as third place winner which might prompt someone to ask what about Beck, the Lawrence runner on the left next to Clark. The other Vike runner is Van Nostrand. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Cardinals are preparing a
Statement About Paul Dean

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(AP)—"What's your name, boy?" Coach Charlie Bachman of Michigan State, asked a husky tackle the other day. "Alexander Gregoriff Ketzko" replied the tackle. "Okay, Butch," said Bachman (which is one way nicknames are born). Prosperity note: More open air fight clubs will operate in the metropolitan area this season than ever before. The St. Louis Cardinals are readying an announcement for the press on the Paul Dean situation. . . . Charley Gelbert of the Reds is having a tussle with Charley horse.

West coast reports say Promoter Tom Gallery of Los Angeles will charge $100 tops for a benefit show next month featuring Bob Pastor and Bob Nestell. . . . Count on the Hollywood movie stars who don't mind putting out, to fill the ringside section. . . . Deak Morse, sports editor of the Caledonian-Record at St. Johnsbury, Vt., craves available United States records on candle pin bowling. . . . If you know where they can be had, drop Deak a line. . . . William J. Sullivan, who was quite a pitcher at Alabama a few years back, has hung out his shingle as a lawyer at Norwalk, Conn.

Javelin—Ed Fritz, Lawrence, heaved the spear 179 feet for first place and tied the state college record. Burton, Lawrence, was second and McCabe, Carroll, third.

Relay race—The relay was one of the best events of the afternoon. Joe Graf started the baton around the track and picked up a nice lead which Gerlach maintained and Beck diffed. However, the Vikings lost a little ground in the pass from Beck to Vande Walle and the latter had to turn on the steam to maintain the lead and win. The time was 1 minute, 56.2 seconds, pretty good time considering the lack of practice.

Larry French Is

Bruin Pitching Staff Shot
As Hurler Fractures
Three Fingers

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
THINGS "ain't what they used to be" at Wrigley field. The Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, once the pride and envy of the big leagues, has been reduced to a bunch of guys named Joe. And old man injury jinx is laughing up his sleeve.

Things were sad enough when Tex Carleton, the top right-hander, chipped an elbow bone in spring training. Then Curt Davis, of whom big things were expected since he recovered from his stomach ache of last year, developed a sore arm.

But the bottom dropped out for Manager Charley Grimm and his pennant hopes yesterday when Larry French, the only southpaw of class, made a stab at a liner from the bat of Ernie Lombardi and fractured three fingers on his glove hand. Not only did the Cubs drop a 10-3 decision to the Roughhouse Reds from Cincinnati, but French took a hospital bed alongside Carleton and Davis, and may be laid up for two months.

This trio won 45 games last year. Of the hurlers still on tap, Bill Lee has shown little or nothing; Roy Parmelee is anything but a manager's dream; Charley Root has seen better days and the others are unproven youngsters.

All of which added up to a terrific black eye for the Cubs' pennant chances. Although it's much too early to be eliminating them, the class shown by the mound corps of the Pittsburgh Pirates, whose game with the Cards was rained out yesterday, and the New York Giants, who dropped a 3-2 tilt to Van Mungo's three-hit pitching for Brooklyn, seems to leave little hope for the 1938 champions.

Foxie Lawson made it two in a row for Detroit yesterday with an 11-5 victory over the St. Louis Browns, aided by some timely hitting by Gerry Walker. The win didn't cut the New York Yankees' first place edge, however, since Lefty Gomez treated himself to a five-hitter, and the world champions clouted the Senators 6-1 in a game that sent Cecil Travis of the Nats to the bench for two weeks with a torn leg ligament.

Earl Averill batted in five runs, including a home run with the bases loaded, as the Cleveland Indians walloped the Chicago White Sox Tail and handsome "Alan Bruce," who you'll see playing opposite Anne Shirley in "Missus America," is none other than Donald Kent former Marquette football player. . . . Why he changed his name is a mystery to us. . . . Donald Kent sounds just as romantic. . . . Tom Stiglich, Oklahoma's new football coach, is going to break in the hard way. . . . His Sooners will play their first four games against Tulsa, Rice, Texas, and Nebraska. . . . Phil Weintraub is the first Jewish player the Cincinnati Reds have had since Sammy Bohne was with the Rhinelanders.

Marquette Tracksters
To Oppose Mich. State

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Marquette university-athletic teams faced today their heaviest weekend of competition in several years with Michigan State college of East Lansing furnishing most of the opposition.

The only event in which the Spartans will not figure is the spring football game against Coach John L. Driscoll's 1937 Golden Avalanche and an alumni team. The game will be played behind locked stadium gates tomorrow afternoon.

Highlighting the intercollegiate program will be the Marquette-Michigan State dual track meet Saturday. The Spartan golf team will tee off with the Hilltoppers tomorrow afternoon and the school's tennis teams will meet Saturday morning.

NO CHANGES
Milwaukee (AP)—No changes were recorded last night among leaders in the Wisconsin State Bowling tournament. In several cases bad slumps after good starts kept bowlers from breaking into the select class.

Jack Torrance Stopped

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Torrance, a war-worn and weary son of the cane-brake, sat sadly in his dressing room and slowly shook his head.

MENASHA—After kicking Referee Ox Wilcox out of the ring along with his opponent, Duke Ruppenthal, Tigeron came back to take the third fall in three minutes and won over Rowdy Poca, Kimberly, in the mat show staged last night at the S. A. Cook armory.

The battle became a free for all after the pair had each won a fall. Poca taking the first in 19 minutes with his original merry roll and the Duke winning the second in 11 minutes when he applied a back breaker.

As the grapplers came into the ring for the last fall, Poca seemed to take charge and bounced the Duke from one side of the ring to another with a series body slams and butts. When the going got tough, Ruppenthal got rough and smashed Rowdy in the face. The referee interfered and Ruppenthal threw him out of the ring where he stayed while Poca apparently pinned his opponent. However, the fight was awarded to Ruppenthal after he again applied his back breaker after three minutes of furious fighting.

Bedlam reigned in the house for several minutes after the verdict while the fans protested the decision. The referee gave the fight to Ruppenthal after he had missed the best part of the battle while reclining at the ringside where the Duke had thrown him.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. (AP)—Clubbing Brewer pitching for 18 hits, including six home runs, the Minneapolis Millers pounded out a 12 to 2 victory over Milwaukee and evened the series at two games apiece.

George Blacholder, Brewer ace, was jolted for 15 base hits in seven innings and the Millers continued their slugging against Garland Braxton, Dusty Cooke, Carl Reynolds and Ray Pflieger hit two homers apiece.

The Brewers clung to a 2-1 lead until the fifth on a home run by Catcher Henry Helf with a man on base. It was Blacholder's first loss in three starts.

The Indians crashed out 16 hits off Ed Heusser, Hank Gornicki and Max Lanier, to defeat the Red Birds, 9 to 6. Red Phillips gave 12 hits, but, staked to a big early lead by his Indian mates, coasted in.

Louisville bunched eight safeties, including five doubles, off Joe Sullivan and Alex Cohen, to shut out the Mud Hens, 6 to 0. Walt Singer held Toledo to seven well spaced hits in handing Toledo its second straight shutout.

Johnny Welch also hurled a four-hit job as St. Paul whipped Kansas City, 8 to 1. Welch was in difficulty only in the second when the Blues scored their lone run, fanning four and walking two men. St. Paul clinched the decision in the third when Bob Boken rapped Joe Vance for a home run with two mates aboard.

St. John Boxers Take Match With St. Norbert Squad

Little Chute Fighters Win
Five Out of Nine
Bouts Last Night

THE RESULTS
Verstegen, St. John, beat McMurray at 110 pounds.
Derks, St. John, outpointed Spuda at 109 pounds.
Vesters, St. John, beat Kane at 118 pounds.
Bradley, St. Norbert, got nod over Geigle at 122 pounds.
Kolb, St. Norbert, got referee's decision over Siebers at 125 pounds.
Koehn, St. John, won decision over Sommers at 125 pounds.
Boots, St. John, won referee's decision over Fleming at 150 pounds.
Baker, St. Norbert, outpointed Van Handel at 162 pounds.
Hoehrein, St. Norbert, won over Van Thiel at 155 pounds.

LITTLE CHUTE—St. John Catholic High school boxers defeated the St. Norbert high squad here last night in five out of nine bouts. A 5-minute wrestling bout between Van Handel and Lenz went to a draw and two other boxing bouts were called off because two St. Norbert fighters were unable to appear.

The Joe Verstegen-Jerry Bradley fight was called off because Bradley fractured his arm last week and the Bob Baker-Helf fight was postponed because of Baker's illness.

Red Boots slugged his way to the victory to avenge his defeat at the hands of Fleming several weeks ago at DePere. The St. John fighter gained an early lead in the third stanza after two rounds of hard punches. Koehn used both hands in punching out an easy victory in three rounds over Sommers. Sommers managed to stay off the St. John boxer in the first two rounds but was forced to clinch to save himself from a knock-out in the third round.

Bradley Wins
Geigle's comeback in the third stanza failed to overcome an early lead and Jim Bradley was given the referee's decision. Both boys were in perfect condition and staged a real battle. Baker, St. Norbert 162-pounder, showed considerable improvement in weaving and punching his way to a win over Larry Van Handel. Both boys hit hard and scored often, but Baker used his experience to a great advantage.

Kolb of St. Norbert found himself on the short end when it came to height but came out on the long end in his bout with Siebers down to the clinch with body smashes and then tossed a few rights to the chin to take the decision. Stan Verstegen and McMurray showed in three fast rounds of punching, with McMurray losing the decision after catching a few hard blows that left him dazed in the third round.

Hoehrein Cope Decision
Swapping blows for three rounds with Van Thiel, Hoehrein copped the decision as a result of his showing in the first two stanzas. A smothering right hand that bounced off his opponent's head frequently during their 3-round skirmish gave Vesters a decision over Kane. Kane's best bet was a good left that failed to count often enough. Derks outpointed Spuda in the first and third rounds of an interesting battle. Spuda depended on quick short jabs while Derks landed with overhead smashes.

The card last night ended the St. John boxers' season, leaving the Little Chute fight squad with a record of five victories and four losses. Out to Cronce of Green Bay was the referee for the card and judges were Jack Zwick, Kaukauna, and Harry Hartjes, Little Chute.

The season's record shows St. John winning from St. Norbert and losing to the De Pere school, winning and losing one each with St. Mary's Menasha, losing to Kaukauna and defeating Neenah twice and St. Catherine High has not offered a return match to the Little Chute school so officials decided to close the season.

Cleveland Tells N. L. President to Judge Own Players

Cleveland—Remarks of National league president Ford Frick that Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' top pitcher, needs a lot of coaching and development before he can become a consistent major league winner drew a pointed reply today from a Cleveland official.

"I believe it might be well for Mr. Frick to confine his analysis of players to his own league," declared C. C. Slapnicka, the American league club's vice president.

Frick was quoted as saying in Buffalo that Feller, who equalled the all-time major league strike-out mark of 17 while winning five and losing three games last season, "should spend some time in the minor leagues"—a statement which Frick denied.

Meanwhile the subject of it all, who pulled a muscle in his "mildly dollar" pitching arm in his first American league start Saturday, was scheduled to go on some throwing today for the first time since the injury.

Club officials expected that the Iowa high schooler would pitch one game of the series which starts in St. Louis Saturday.

Two rounds of play again will feature the race. The first will close on June 18 and the second on Aug. 6 after which there will be a 3-game title series. Games will be played Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. Bill Pickett has been named umpire and Francis Wetengel scorer.

Chuters Practice For Opening Game

American Legion Squad
Will Meet Green Bay
Sox on May 9

Little Chute—Despite rain and cool weather, the Little Chute baseball team is holding daily practices in preparation for its opening game May 9 against the Green Bay Green Sox. Wet grounds have hampered the boys in their workouts, but Manager George Vanderloop keeps them at batting and infield practice.

Bill Peotter has been showing well at the initial sack and has been cracking plenty of hits. Peotter has been picking ground balls out of the dirt like a big leaguer and is expected to bolster the Legion lineup.

Howie Ellis will join the squad this week and will work out with the club on Friday. Suits will be issued Sunday afternoon.

Local players who wish to show under the American Legion banner this season must earn their places in the lineup. Manager Vanderloop said. Players who do not appear regularly for practices will not be carried with the squad.

Thursday's practice session will be a short one as officials of the Little Chute Club will go to Green Bay to a league meeting. George Vanderloop, Arthur Penning, Math Reymond and Marty Lamers will attend.

Gene Mako, combination which holds this country's doubles crown. Those who have watched the prospective rivals in practice pick the United States to triumph in this American zone. They believe Dudge's dynamite smashes and ruggedness will carry him to two singles victories that Parker will take one single, and that Dudge and Mako will prove invulnerable in the doubles competition.

Badger Nine to Oppose Chicago

Coach Lowell Douglas' Proteges Have Won 7 Prelim Games

Madison—(P)—Winner of seven of ten preliminary games played against non-conference foes, the University of Wisconsin baseball team will start its Big Ten campaign here tomorrow and Saturday against the University of Chicago.

Coach Lowell Douglas has developed one of the strongest Badger teams since the days of the Maury Farmer-Bobby Poser combination, and despite continuous cold and rainy weather the Badgers have displayed batting power, fair pitching and top-notch defensive tactics.

The two game series will be the first major test of Wisconsin's strength. Walter Zuehlis, (Lefty) Doudna and John Martelli have carried the brunt of the pitching burden, and all three will probably see action this week.

In the hitting department, Harlan Palmer, used only as a pinch batter, is leading the percentage column with an average of .800, based on four successive hits out of five times at bat. Among the regulars, Florian Radke, catcher, is leading with seven hits in 16 trips to the plate, an average of .438.

New York—The Queens county grand jury has asked for more police during the 1939 world fair.

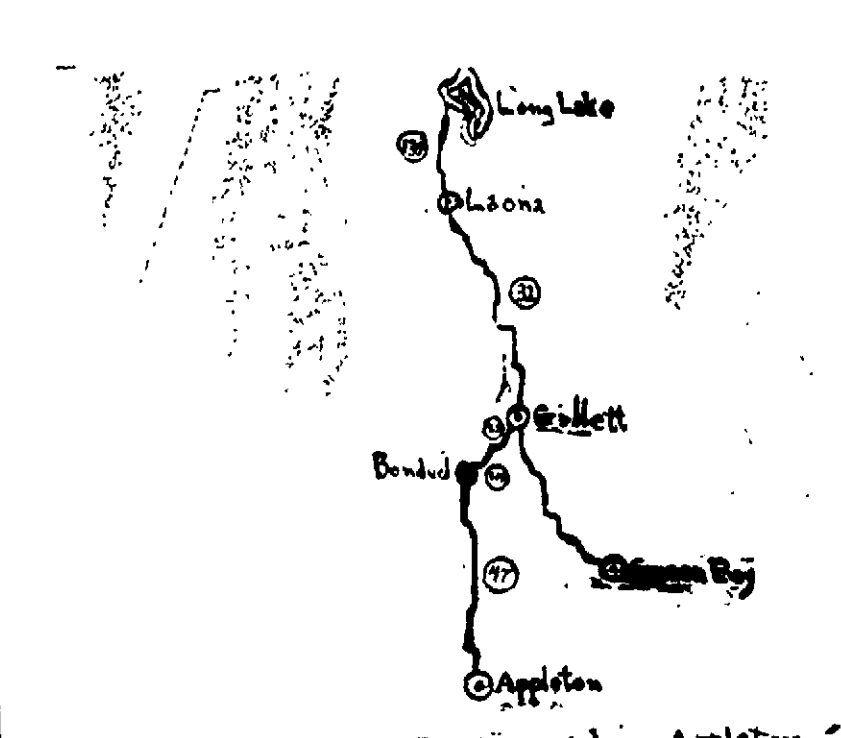

Loyal to Queens' own citizens
The jury stated plainly the extra officers were needed to cope with "persons of evil disposition" who may be attracted to the fair.

Dog Gone
Auburn, N. Y.—A dog, breed unknown, encountered a railway switch engine on a trestle not big enough for both of them, and came out alive and unhurt.

The problem was solved simply. The engineer saw the dog, stopped the train, and then backed off the trestle while the dog gingerly picked his way over the ties to safety.

Long Lake, Forest County, Has Black Bass and Pike

Distance—145 miles to Long Lake from Appleton

BY BERT CLAFIN
(Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor)

IN Forest county there are a number of excellent lakes for game fish. Long lake, just off highway 139, a few miles north of Laona, has long been known for its northern pike and black bass. Some anglers do not speak highly of Long lake for fishing, but I have found it as good as any other water in that group.

A friend and I went onto it one day last summer and we made good catches of both pike and bass. The day was sultry with a light rain falling. We used red and white metal wobblers, catching on them several northern pike, two of which weighed a bit over six pounds apiece. The bass we took on surface bugs with a fly rod from about six o'clock until nine.

The country about Long lake is wild and "woody." In the lake are weed beds and old snags that are ideal homes for the bass. We landed our best specimens along the eastern shore.

If you are not a fly fisherman you should be able to catch the bass by using small spinners with a thin strip of pork rind attached. I saw one fisherman on the lake who was using nothing but June Bug spinners and live minnows. This is always a good lure, if anyone cares to bother with live bait. I do not find it necessary, however, to resort to it when bass fishing on inland waters.

Even in the harbors on the Door county peninsula, where live bait is almost exclusively used, bass will at times rise to surface lures. When caught in that manner the pleasure is much greater than with live bait fished deep where one cannot see the fish strike.

Ormanda, dam of Brevity and Osmand, thoroughbreds that carried the colors of Joseph E. Widener to notable turf victories, is still doing active service as a broodmare at Mr. Widener's Elmendorf farm in Kentucky.

U. S. High Court Topic at Chilton Kiwanis Meeting

Crow Traces Origin and Development of Ameri- can Constitution

Chilton—At the regular meeting of the Chilton Kiwanis club Tuesday evening, William Crow of Appleton discussed the supreme court. Beginning with the constitutional convention, he traced the development of the constitution during the convention, its ratification and its functioning as an instrument of government. While embodying many features of government from England, our constitution has many features not found in English governmental operation. Many writers and speakers when comparing English and American government, he said, overlook or neglect to take into account the small area of England and the homogeneity of its people as compared with the vast area of the United States and its almost bewildering variety of races. The parliament of England legislates for an area smaller than Wisconsin while the congress at Washington legislates for an area greater than all Europe.

The great variety of climate of the United States with its resultant differences of products and industries will always result in a clashing of interests in national legislation, he maintained. If the people of the United States are not satisfied with the functioning of the supreme court, the constitution provides for such modification of that branch of our government as the people may see fit to make, the speaker said, pointing out that all branches of our national government are subject to intelligent criticism at all times, but all fundamental changes should be made in accordance with constitutional provision.

Following Mr. Crow's address, aspects of the proposed change in the supreme court were discussed by different members present. Henry Weeks, secretary of the Calumet County Agricultural association, spoke to the Kiwanis club, pleading for the cooperation of both city and county authorities in making some needed improvements in the way of building improvements on the county fair grounds. A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Armin Ecker at St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton.

Mrs. Gus Guenther received word Wednesday that a son was born to Dr. and Mrs. Eric Guenther of Milwaukee on Tuesday. Both Dr. and Mrs. Guenther are former residents of Chilton, the former the son of Mrs. and the late Gustave Guenther, and the latter Miss Gladys Schwalbe.

Mrs. H. L. Turner entertained her bridge club Tuesday afternoon, her guests going to Mrs. Walter Heil, Mrs. George Meyer, and Mrs. Henry Balz. This is the final meeting of the club for the season.

Mrs. George Schwartz entertained her Neighborhood club Tuesday evening, prizes at bridge going to Mrs. Norman Pfeffer and Mrs. Tena Bell. The club will meet next with Miss Margaret Schwartz.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jaeger were at Appleton Tuesday to visit the latter's mother, Mrs. Nora McHugh of Stockholm, who fell off her porch Sunday and was badly bruised. She is being treated at St. Elizabeth hospital.

Mrs. Gladys West has received word from her sister, Mrs. Arthur Koch of Chicago, stating that Donald, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Koch had been struck by an automobile several days ago and painfully injured. He was on his way to school and stepped off the curb for a moment, when he was struck. His shoulder was lacerated and one of his ears injured.

Pretty Diva And Her Flautist Harmonize On Matrimonial C's

Possell Helps Helen Jepson Pick Clothes

BY SIGRID ARNE
New York (A)—Helen Jepson, the Metropolitan opera's beautiful, blonde soprano, is the leading lady, and George Possell, one of the more famous symphony flautists, is the leading man in this little domestic drama. Really, they're Mr. and Mrs. Possell.

They were headed for a sedate Sunday tea. Helen's spring outfit was brought forth. It's a beige suit. That's calm enough, but the accessories make men 80 years old stop in their tracks. There's a huge, garden-affair hat of beige with long, salmon - ribbon streamers down the back. And there are huge salmon-leather gauntlets and purse to match.

Artists in Love
"You might catch cold in that," said Mr. Possell.
"Not me," trilled Helen.
"Isn't it a little 'too, too,' for Sunday," he added, getting down to the truth.

"Oh-o-o," wheedled Helen. She won. But three blocks from her big brown eyes, and said: "Tell the taxi to turn back. You're right. I must change." George shouted. He thought it was cute, because it was Helen. So maybe two 'artists' can be married and not tangle in temperamental tiffs. Possell-Jepson, Inc., think so.

They live in a cave of an apartment 10 minutes from the Metropolitan. It's all cream and pastel shades to set off Helen's slim blondness. They met about eight years ago when Helen was a pretty voice student.

George's eyes were pleased, but so were his ears. He talked about her everywhere. Radio contracts came. She signed with the Metropolitan, and now she's going to Hollywood to make a film. Possell will cancel his own broadcasting contracts to go with her.

"She's too pretty to be alone in Hollywood," he teases. She tweaks his waxed mustache in reply.

Fitting about the map seems easy for them. They go to Europe in the summer for special training for Helen. When the "Met" goes out of town in the season George manages to arrange his work for radio and recording companies so he can visit her on weekends.

When they're at home they make their work something like a chess game. She sings and he listens. If she strikes a rough phrase, he picks it up with the flute and helps with the tempo. When he's working up new music, she hums along. But when he plays—

"Mostly she goes to sleep," grins George.

He Helps Her Shop
To hear them tell it, their really serious business is choosing Helen's clothes. They shop together, and the wise saleswoman pleases George.

"He knows more about clothes than three women," smiles Helen.
"That's right," says Possell.
"Except about his own clothes," she teases. "He wears a derby. I hate them."

"I like them," he grins.
He still attends half her performances, after six years of married life. And he goes back stage with penciled notes on a phrase to change, or a gesture to refine. She really likes the help.

Raise Rabbits as Hobby
In off hours they have three enthusiasms: one very large enthusiasm, and two small ones. The large one is Sally Patricia Possell, four years old, who is cared for by an extremely starched and efficient nurse.

Rare breeds of rabbits which they raise at their lodge 85 miles out of the city are a second enthusiasm. The rabbits are so interesting they may make a business of them.

George started the third enthusiasm when he bought Helen a movie camera for Christmas. Now he takes most of the films because he likes to take pictures of her.

"She's so pretty," he explains.

Tomorrow: Sophie and Adam Gimbel.

Police to Record Names Of "Warned" Motorists

Individual motorists warned by county police about traffic law violations now will be under the axe if they are stopped a second time, even though the patrolman is not the same one who issued the initial warning.

Names of all drivers who have been warned by a member of the county highway police force will be posted at the highway office and will be studied regularly by the officers. Captain Charles Steidl announced today.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will bring the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Riverside and LaFollette Parks to Open Saturday

Kaukauna—The season of potato salad, softball games, horseback riding, and dozens of other outdoor activities will be ushered in here this weekend with the opening of the two large public parks in this vicinity, Riverside and LaFollette.

A crew of eight men has been busy the past few weeks preparing the two 14-acre parks for the summer and F. G. Tittman, park superintendent, said yesterday that the public would be admitted starting Saturday.

At Riverside workers have been busy cleaning up the grounds, burning rubbish and old leaves, and repairing and repainting picnic tables and benches. Twenty-five evergreen trees will be planted there this week and grass seed placed on the ground disturbed when sewers were installed last year. The caretakers at this park are John DeGoey and John Garlich.

Forty-eight trees, including elm, basswood, ash, and maple, were planted last week in LaFollette park and a dozen new tables have been placed there for the convenience of picnickers. The trees were planted to replace 50 hickories that died last year. The grounds have also been cleaned, general improvements made, and the roof on the bandstand will be repaired. August Stegeman and August Hoene are caretakers at LaFollette park.

Creamery park, Silver Spray park, Lawe street park, White City park, and Legion park, all within the city have also been cleaned and improved for the summer season.

Junior Varsity in Track Meet With Chilton Saturday
Second String Thinclads Organized Now for First Time

Kaukauna—The first junior varsity track team at Kaukauna High school will get its initial experience with outside competition when the Chilton junior varsity squad comes here for a dual meet Saturday morning. The first event will be called at 9:30, Coach Paul Little said yesterday.

A new athletic group at the high school, the junior varsity track squad is made up of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors lacking necessary experience and ability for the first team. This plan is practiced successfully by larger schools in the state.

Because it is regarded as too grueling for younger boys, the mile has been struck from the junior varsity track schedule. A contestant is allowed to enter four events, but no more than three can be on the track. Clifford Kemp, physical education instructor, will be the starter at the meet Saturday.

List Entries
The entries from Kaukauna in the various events are as follows: 100-yard dash, Helf, Block, Ashe; 220-yard dash, Helf, Block, T. McCarty; 440-yard dash, Wolfe, Burns, Stefens; 880-yard run, Nelson, McDermid, D. Siebers, L. Scherer, Derus; 120-yard low hurdles, Meyer, F. Hooyman, Doering, Scherer, Derus, D. Siebers.

Contestants in the field events are as follows: pole vault, K. Busse, B. Busse; broad jump, T. McCarty, J. Winn, R. St. Aubin; high jump, St. Aubin, Meyer; discus, H. Kersten, Block; shotput, Kersten, Thatcher, Andrzejski; relay, Helf, Block, Wolfe, Meyer.

ends Saturday

BY QUINTON JAMES
Adolf Hitler takes his place among the world's philatelic personalities with the advent of the Reich's stamp honoring his 48th birthday, April 20.

The head of "Der Fuehrer," in a three-quarter view facing right, takes up the entire center of the design. The figure six appears in each upper corner, and "Deutsches Reich" is below the portrait.

There is just one value—6 pfennigs—but four of the adhesives are printed in a block on a miniature sheet. This motto runs across the bottom margin: "He who would save a people can only think heroically."

With a face value of 24 pfennigs, the sheet is being sold for 1 mark (approximately 40 cents), the remaining 76 pfennigs going to charity.

The sheet is lavishly watermarked with swastikas, large and small, light and dark.

Coronation Issues
Great Britain will issue a single coronation stamp of 1½-pence value, printed in soft brown. Like Canada's single 3-cent coronation stamp, this one will carry the portraits of the new king and queen.

In design, the British stamp will differ decidedly from the plain King Edward VIII style. Scrollwork will frame the portraits.

Lack of time to prepare more engravings is said to be one reason why England and some of her colonies are printing only one coronation value.

New Zealand's coronation stamp will show portraits of both rulers.

Australia will announce her coronation adhesive soon. The commonwealth is planning to replace its current stamps with a new set at the time of the coronation. The designs will center around the new British rulers, with the queen's head on the penny stamp and the king's head on the 2-pence.

Fewer Stamps in 1936
Kent B. Stiles' report of the total stamps issued throughout the world in the past year shows a drop for 1936. The total was 1,415, compared with 1,900 in 1935. The figure does not include stamps from civil-war torn Spain. The annual Stiles report is seldom completed until this time of year to insure a fairly complete record.

Seek to Restore Penal Workers Pay

John Cashman, Denmark, Introduces Bill in Senate

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—An amendment to the administration's budget bill, which has passed the assembly and is now before the senate, to provide for salary waiver restoration for 927 employees in the 17 state penal and charitable institutions has been introduced in the senate by Senator John E. Cashman, Denmark Progressive.

The amendment would add $102,424 to the appropriations provided in the budget to be used exclusively for the restoration to the minimum prescribed by statute of the salaries of those state and penal institutional employees who are classified as earning less than $125 a month.

The amendment was introduced by Senator Cashman at the request of the Wisconsin Public Employees association, and rough treatment of the proposal has been predicted.

According to an officer of the association, "many of the best institutional employees are leaving the state service for better jobs at more pay. Certainly a private concern does not have to offer much to exceed a state salary of $50 to $70 a month. The time is not far distant when state institutions will be unable to secure employees to do the work required for the salaries which are being paid."

An air mail and passenger service will connect Tokyo, Japan, and Peiping, China.

Proposal to Pave And Widen Street Aired at Meeting

Property Owners Vote to Carry Out Work This Year if Aid Is Available

Neenah—Proposed paving and widening of N. Commercial street from W. North Water street to Nicolet boulevard was discussed at a special meeting called by the committee on public improvements in the council chamber of the city hall last evening. The meeting was called after petitions signed by abutting property owners were presented to the council and proved to be a monkey wrench in the machinery of the street improvement project.

William Schmidt, chairman of the committee, asked the following question at the conclusion of the meeting: "Do you wish the committee to carry on with the project this year if outside aid is secured?" Nine of the property owners indicated they favored the program and two were opposed.

Over 60 Attend

More than 60 committee members, Winnebago county board representatives, property owners, Wisconsin, Michigan Power Co. and Chicago and North Western railway aired their views regarding the type of pavement to be used, cost to property owners, possibilities of securing federal, state or county aid, disposal and subsequent repair of rails in the street, time the work should be done and type of signals at a railway crossing.

Fred Abendschein, property owner who said he circulated the petitions which objected to various phases of the project, asked the committee to delay in order to solicit county and state aid. He said A. K. Ellis, former official of the power company, had promised to remove the rails and leave the street in a good condition. "By waiting, we have everything to gain and nothing to lose," he declared.

Favor Postponement

Signers of the petition, Ivan Stip, John Herziger, Albert F. Koser, William J. Dowling, Joseph Stecker and others, said they were not opposed to the paving but favored postponement if it was possible to secure aid next year. Some said they favored a black top dressing because it was less expensive, could be laid quicker than concrete, was not as noisy and would wear as well.

Frank S. Durham, president of the W. J. Durham Lumber Co., declared the city council was capable of dealing with the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., and it was apparent that since efforts had been made to secure financial assistance. He said the matter had been discussed by him with Governor Philip F. LaFollette in a recent interview and he expected to receive definite word in about 10 days from the state highway commission.

No Chance For Aid

Mr. Schmidt said, as far as he knew, there is "no chance of securing aid because the street is not included on the federal aid system." Harry J. Zemlock, city clerk, briefly reviewed a sheet of letters, dated from 1933, related to committee and council efforts to solicit additional funds. Supervisors C. A. Korotev, Henry Schultz and C. H. Pope said every effort had been made to obtain county aid but could give no assurance of help from that quarter because of the recent Lake street improvement.

Mr. Schultz added that he had been told that a federal allotment of funds for the year 1937 would be matched dollar for dollar by the county and would be made available to the county soon and it may be possible that Neenah could get a slice of it.

Would Cost $32,800

A. G. Prunuske, city engineer, estimated the entire project would cost $32,800. He pointed out that WPA approval had been secured and the committee had hastened its plans for fear of losing the WPA grant. "Regardless of what type of pavement is used, the job will take about 90 days," he continued.

The following estimates were quoted by Mr. Prunuske: reinforced concrete, $1.92 a square yard plus $1 for curb and gutter, rate of assessment, $3.48 per linear foot, including removal of brick; concrete base with class A black top dressing, $2.25 a square yard plus $1, rate of assessment, $4.90 per linear foot; 2-inch black top over brick, $1.60 a square yard plus $1, rate of assessment, $3.05 per linear foot.

$12,000 WPA Grant

"The figures include cost of materials, rental of equipment and supervision but not common or semi-skilled labor, which would be paid by the WPA at a cost of about $12,000," Mr. Prunuske said. "If the grant was not accepted by the city, the rate of assessment would be increased from 50 to 60 cents."

The committee was ready to accept a proposal from the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. offering $150,000 in cash and salvage of rails and brick owned by the company for full release of all future obligations when the first petition was filed, Mr. Schmidt said. John O'Leary, city attorney, said there was no manner in which the city could force the power company to pay any amount because the public service commission has ruled the matter must be settled between the two parties involved.

Par Over 10-Year Period

That the project would keep idle men busy and alternate bids would be called for, was pointed out by Mr. Schmidt. He asserted the committee would make it as easy as possible for the property owners and the improvement could be paid for over a 10-year period. He said the bulk of the traffic is routed over that street and it was in terrible condition. Mr. Durham said there was danger of losing the WPA grant and favored immediate action after he received definite information from the state department.

W. B. Montgomery, official of the power company, declared the gas mains were checked three years ago and would be investigated again as soon as the company found out what the city intended to do. Poles aligning the street have been removed by the company in preparation for the street widening.

Merchants said it would hurt business to have the street tied up but it was pointed out by Mr. Schmidt that only one side would be paved at a time. A representative of Mrs. John Meyer suggested furtherance of the move for a second bridge over the Fox river before final action on the N. Commercial street project.

F. J. Scheller believed the improvement was a luxury at this time because the people were "just recovering from the effects of the depression." He pointed out that the Nicolet boulevard intersection was dangerous and lights should be installed there. Installation of signal lights on retaining the gates at the Chicago and North Western railway crossing was considered.

Final recommendations for the N. Commercial street paving project will be drawn up by the committee at a meeting at 1:30 Saturday afternoon in the city hall, according to an announcement made today. Opponents joined at a special meeting last evening by interested parties will be considered.

The following petitions will be considered at the session: sanitary sewer on Division street from Reed to Congress street; sanitary sewer on W. Adams street from Lake street to Western avenue; sanitary sewer on Stevens street, story sewer on Grove street from Spruce to Division street; curb, gutter, grading and stone on Stevens street.

Work Night Crews on New Winnebago Co Courthouse

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—Lights twinkling brightly through the night mists from the scaffolding of the second story testified that two nights this week crews have worked until late pouring concrete to keep up with schedule on the construction of Winnebago county's new $1,000,000 courthouse.

Julius Sandstedt, superintendent for the architects, Granger and Boltenbacher, said that by this method one day lost by bad weather was picked up this week. The pouring of concrete for the second floor was completed at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, he said. Concrete was mixed and poured all night Monday, ending at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. With the expedition of good weather from now on, Sandstedt said he believed there would be no further night work.

Raise Columns
Wednesday afternoon work began on raising the columns for the third floor and the new-style concrete buggies used on the job whizzed busily about. R. J. Hole, superintendent for the general contractor, the Lundoff-Bicknell company, said these rubber tired buggies not only save man-power but speed the job.

He said that with their help the work can go ahead smoothly with each man easily handling 700 pounds of concrete in each load. A maximum of men working on the job was made Monday when 80 employees in the different branches were recorded, Sandstedt said.

Tests of concrete strength taken to date show that they run about 33 1-3 to 50 per cent over the designed strength. The concrete is mixed at the basement and shot to the desired level by elevators on the construction tower and things move like clock-work.

Workmen were busy Wednesday removing the patented jacks which supported the forms for the first and second story, giving evidence the work was being pushed as fast as conditions permitted. Sandstedt stated that it was the general practice to leave the supports in place after the concrete had been poured for the floors and columns for a period of 21 days to permit the concrete to crystallize.

Emergency Hays, Pastures Subject Of Briggs' Talk

Meeting at Oshkosh Sponsored by Dairy Herd Association

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—George M. Briggs, of the agronomy department, college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, gave a talk on emergency hays and pastures for 1937 at a meeting held Tuesday night in the agricultural room at the Oshkosh High school.

The meeting was called for the members of the Dairy Herd Improvement association No. 1 but because of the fact that Mr. Briggs' talk was timely, the meeting was opened to all county farmers and 80 attended. Mr. Briggs informed the farmers that due to excessive drought last summer and the ice sheets of this winter many new seedlings have been destroyed and there is great need for quick growing hays and pastures for the coming summer. One of the most popular emergency hay crops for early sowing is oats, he said. Yields are good as a general rule, he pointed out, and it makes no day. Seed costs for 1937 were referred to as very reasonable.

He stated that soy beans are the best late sown emergency hay for the following reasons: they are productive, palatable and very rich in protein and are particularly equal to alfalfa in feeding value. Mr. Briggs said that Sudan grass is valuable for both hay and pastures in hot dry weather but its chief drawback is Sudan grass poisoning. However, it was stated that if its growth is not checked or if it is not frost-killed and entirely dry when stored this danger is practically eliminated.

Mr. Briggs termed sweet corn and feed corn as one of the cheapest and most dependable sources of late summer feed. It can be planted thickly and cut green in August and September. He said the toughest and hardest of grains is winter rye which can be grown any time of the year in almost any kind of soil and is especially valuable for pasture.

Menasha—Homeowners are urged by the Menasha Junior Chamber of Commerce to take part in the citywide clean-up, painting program being sponsored by the organization this week.

Improvements suggested by the Jaces include raking the lawn, repairing the porch, painting the building, planting shrubs and flowers, washing sidewalks, planting grass seed in bare spots, cleaning the cellar, getting rid of rubbish, trimming trees, repairing walks and driveways, cleaning and polishing the car.

Menasha High school students have elected committees in the various classes to assist in the clean-up program and the Jace committee, headed by Jim Howley, is doing everything possible to make Menasha streets and homes attractive.

Mayor Walter E. Held has cooperated by signing a proclamation declaring this week clean-up week and has ordered city officials to make a survey of city owned property to see what could be done to improve the appearance of buildings and property.

Dammann Denies McDonald Charge At State Hearing

Secretary Says Ex-Commissioner Accused Him Of Breaking Oath

Madison—(P)—Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, bristling with anger, denied before the senate highway committee today, that he had refused to collect taxes from any out-of-state trucks entering Wisconsin.

Dammann denounced Andrew R. McDonald, former member of the state public service commission and now a Wisconsin railroad lobbyist, for his assertion before an assembly committee Tuesday that the secretary of state was "incompetent" to handle a proposed consolidation bureau of highway inspection forces.

Shaking his finger at McDonald, who was sitting in the audience, Dammann said: "That man has accused me of violating the law. That means he accused me of violating my constitutional oath. He can answer for that in court."

Won't Apologize

McDonald, later told the senate group he had no apology to make for his statement.

He said the 1935 legislature directed the public service commission and the secretary of state to enforce the law requiring out-of-state trucks to be licensed and repeated the charge that Dammann, in 1936 entered into a reciprocal agreement with Illinois.

The senate committee had before it a bill that would legalize reciprocal agreements between Wisconsin and neighboring states under which trucks mutually could cross state lines without payment of additional fees.

More than a score of Wisconsin truckers appeared to support the bill.

Speaking for the railroads, which he said have a large Wisconsin investment to protect, McDonald opposed the plan. He said it would mean a substantial reduction in highway revenues.

Can't Replace Men On WPA Projects

New London—New London can't replace outside relief workers at the city WPA park project with men from its own relief rolls because the government is cutting down on the number of men on all projects, Mayor E. W. Wendlandt said yesterday after visiting the state WPA director at Madison Tuesday. Where 48,000 men were at work Jan. 1 this year the government seeks to lower that number to 44,000 by May 1. Anyone leaving the projects now cannot be replaced, it was explained.

Mayor Wendlandt said the city could negotiate to remove those outside workers now on the project to preserve work so much longer for the city's own needy. However, this policy is not considered desirable until the swimming pool and bathhouse have been completed.

Southern Theme to Feature Junior Prom at New London

New London — Eighteen thousand in pins, a number which exhausted the city's supply, have done their part in transforming the New London High school gymnasium into the atmosphere of a warm southern evening under plantation skies in preparation for the annual junior prom tomorrow evening.

Hard-working student committees are doing the rest. A star-bespeckled sky of deep blue reaches to the tops of magnolia trees and cloaks the southern mansion from which will flow the popular dance music of Van Caster and his orchestra from Green Bay. Several hundred couples are expected to dance under the silver stars as guests of the junior class tomorrow evening.

Decorations are nearly complete except for a picket fence and other small details. Because such short time was available pins were used to fasten the thousands of hand-fashioned pieces. Many students are aiding the special committee to finish the work in ample time.

Corn acreage is increasing in the northwest part of the United States but is decreasing in the southern and eastern portions.

Variety of New Books are Placed On Shelves at New London Library

New London—New books made available at the New London Public library today offer a variety of subjects. "White Elephant in the Caribbean" is a vivid and attractive picture of the West Indies for travelers and arm-chair globe trotters. Henry Phillips is the author. The book interprets the beauty and rich history of the islands with a fresh insight in relation to their present, everyday life.

"Fighting Angel" by Pearl Buck is a vigorous biography of the author's father, a lonely adventurer ranging the turbulent interior of old China through famine, banditry and revolution. The book is a companion to "The Exile", a biography of the author's mother.

For the junior department there is "The Life of Our Lord" by Charles Dickens. This simple narrative of the life of Christ was written between 1846 and 1849 to answer the many questions of his children about religion. The manuscript was regarded as a sacred family secret for 85 years and given to the world only after the death of his son, Sir Henry Fielding Dickens, in 1933. "The Covered Bridge" by Mags, is the story of a girl who spends the winter in the Green Mountain country of Vermont.

Books for little children include "Farm on the Hill" by Book, A. Story about Tall Buildings, and Dr. Rabbit and Ki-Yi Coyote.

The children's room will be closed all day Saturday because of the music festival contests which will be held there. Books which are due Saturday will be received at the main desk upstairs.

Make Plans for Handling Traffic During Festival

Expect Unusually Heavy Influx for Event On Saturday

New London — Special regulations to handle the unusual traffic which is expected here for the district music contest festival Saturday are planned by Chief of Police Harry Macklin. Several dozen local men will be enlisted to maintain traffic order in the city when the influx of more than 900 students and many spectators begins Saturday morning.

Playground areas west of the Washington High school and south of the Lincoln Junior High school building will be utilized as parking areas. Barking will be permitted only on one side of Wyman street.

The police department will ask all people employed down town to leave their cars home Saturday so that streets will be less obstructed and parking space will be available to visitors. Six of the ten music halls are located in or near the business district. Visiting students will be asked to leave their machines parked in the same spot all day to prevent confusion.

Committees are preparing direction signs and other posters. Boy Scouts of Troop 7 have volunteered to act as messenger boys between the various music halls and aid in directing students about the city. Piano tuners were busy yesterday at each of the 10 concert halls preparing the respective instruments for the event.

Rope Splicing Will Be Studied in Class

New London—Rope splicing for farm work will be studied by farmers with L. M. Warner, agricultural instructor at Washington High school, at the weekly class at the Readfield school house Friday night. The four following meetings will be given over to soil testing and farmers will rap out their farms for best crop plantings.
